STALINGRAD STILL HOLDS OUT

SOLVE THEFT OF 17 TIRES; TWO IN JAIL

Police Get Confession From Youth; Hold Gas Station Manager as 'Fence.'

HUNT OTHER LOOT

Officers Believe Others Are Involved; Charges To Be Filed Today.

Moving rapidly against tire thievery in Mansfield, police today were holding the manager of a filling station who purportedly has confessed acting, innocently or otherwise, as "fence" for a youth who admitted stealing a number of tires and wheels, including those taken from defense plant garages or parking lots.

Clare W. Kyler, assistant identification officer, and Plainclothesman Herbert G. Palmer arrested the station operator yesterday afternoon on a statement signed by the youth who has a Boys' Industrial school record. The youth was taken into custody late Saturday following Kyler's fingerprint study and comparisons.

Officers today were pressing their search for other stolen tires and wheels although the station manager's statement uncovered 17 of the missing parts, the officers said.

Meanwhile, Howard Pierce of the Richland Shale Brick company, reported to police that a tire and wheel was stolen from his car Sunday night, giving evidence that the thefts are being executed by more than one person or one gang.

"When I read in The News-Journal that Chief Bell had issued orders to shoot to kill tire thieves, I decided to quit the racket," the youth told police after his arrest Saturday evening.

Many of his thefts, he said, were from cars parked on North Walnut street, near Fifth street, and also in the filling station parking lot. Thefts were confessed from war workers' autos parked in lots or garages of the Westinghouse, Tappan Stove company and Martin Steel Products plants.

Police today had not determined whether the station manager had offered any of the stolen tires for sale but were of the belief he contemplated extensive "black market" operations as his illicit stock increased.

Early last week two strange youths offered to sell tires to Mansfielders and an effort was made to link this incident with the theft at Norwalk by four Cleveland youths who were captured Friday.

Declaring such thievery was a form of sabotage Police Chief Thomas M. Bell last Friday issued orders to his department members to "shoot to kill" on discovery of tire thieves.

Chief Bell indicated today that "breaking and entering" charges would be included in affidavits against the youth while he anticipated that today the investigating officers will file charges of "receiving stolen property" against the filling station manager.

Sounds Plea For 1,000 To Enroll As Blood Donors

Call for 1,000 Richland county blood donors went out from the executive offices of the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross today to meet the demand created by monthly visits of the Cleveland mobile blood donor unit starting in November.

Action to bring the unit to Mansfield on a monthly basis was taken by the county blood donor committee, headed by John Finefrock, upon the insistence of the Cleveland unit. The county has already 550 pints of blood to the cause and half of the 230 persons contributing the first part of September had been donors in May.

Because donors can only be accepted once every eight weeks the county must recruit at least 1,000 persons to establish a reservoir sufficient to allow for shrinkage at each of the two-day monthly donation periods, Miss Lenore Van Gundia, executive secretary of the Red Cross, explained. This means that 300 persons must be available each month.

Registration, heretofore limited to personal calls, may now be made by telephone, Miss Van Gundia said, and enrollment will begin immediately. The Bethany House of First Presbyterian church has previously been used as a donation center and arrangements will be made to continue here if possible.

Roosevelt Tells Nation We're Only at Half-Speed In War Production, Must Double Our Rate to Turn Tide

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt told congress today that the United States was producing only a little more than 50 per cent of its maximum possible war production and solemnly warned:

"Not until we have reached the maximum —and we can do this only by stripping our civilian economy to the bone—can our fighting men and those of our allies be assured of the vastly greater quantities of weapons required to turn the tide.

"Not until then can the United Nations march forward together to certain victory."

The president's statement was in a letter transmitting the sixth quarterly lend-lease report in which he spoke of Britain as an "offensive base."

The report showed such aid to the British commonwealth of nations and 35 other countries during the 18 months since the program began totaled $6,489,000,000, with actual exports amounting to $3,525,000,000. In the same time lend-lease countries purchased $5,800,000,000 worth of goods, including munitions from this country.

Lend-lease help is now being provided at the rate of $8,000,000,000 a year, with the maximum aid possible under 15 separate appropriation acts reaching almost $63,000,000,000.

At present, the report said, about 35 per cent of lend-lease exports were going to the United Kingdom, 35 per cent to Russia, and 30 per cent to the Middle East, Australia and other areas.

"Aid to China," it was added, "has been limited by the difficulty of transportation, but

AUG. 15 MADE FREEZING DATE IN WAGE BILL

Senate Also To Tell President To Stabilize Farm Prices Not Lower Than Parity.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Sponsors of anti-inflation legislation, who today brought out the first draft of a bill to meet President Roosevelt's demand for action by Oct. 1, declared that the president had seen the draft and that he had stated: "This is exactly what I want."

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Senator Brown (D., Mich.) said today that President Roosevelt would be directed to stabilize wages as of Aug. 15 and farm prices at levels not below parity under the terms of anti-inflation legislation to be introduced in the senate today.

Brown told reporters the president would be authorized and directed to take both actions simultaneously. He reported that the bill also would contain a broad grant of powers to the chief executive to deal with other factors involved in the cost of living.

In stabalizing wages and prices, Brown said the president would be authorized to take into account substandard conditions and to correct any "gross inequities" that might arise.

He could not, however, force agricultural prices below parity levels.

In line with this idea, Brown explained, the president would be authorized to set the ceiling for agricultural commodities at the levels of a recent date so that in effect none would be placed below the top level reached this year.

The Aug. 15 date for stabilizing wages was chosen, Brown reported, because it coincides with government statistical periods. He said, however, that the date might later be changed

TRAIN BLASTED

Streamliner Damaged By 7 Blasts; None Injured.

OMAHA—(AP)—Seven explosions rocked the crack westbound Burlington streamline train en route from Chicago to Denver two and one-half miles east of Nodaway, Ia., at 12:30 a. m. today. Passengers escaped injury. Burlington officials at Omaha said, and damage was slight.

There were 24 cars on the train but damage was confined to the road bed and undercarriages on several cars. The train proceeded slowly to Omaha after being held up until 4:27 a. m.

The train did not leave the track, Burlington officials added.

TRAFFIC HALTED

Seven Pennsy Freight Cars Derailed Near Canton.

CANTON —(UP)— Traffic over the Pennsylvania railroad's main line was resumed today following the derailment of seven freight cars which tied up traffic for more than six hours.

The accident was believed to have been caused by a faulty switch. No one was injured.

Mansfield Youth Rescued After Being Trapped In Cave 6 Hours

Companions Call For Help; Butler Responds

By KEN WOODMAN

Mercurochrome-painted bruises and cuts were all that 19-year-old Fredric Troll, jr., 430 Glessner avenue, had left today to remind him of six shivering hours he spent wedged helplessly between the wet, mossy walls of Bat cave near Newville, Saturday.

But they were enough to convince him that it's no fun being stuck underground all that time especially when for two hours the only company he had was a bat, a mouse, and a suspicious-looking snake hole!

Troll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fredric Troll, sr., drove to the cave shortly after noon Saturday in company with two friends, Wayne Murphy, 17, of 550 South Main street, and his brother Dale, 15.

"And I'd like to say right now," Troll said early today, "that I certainly appreciate what Wayne did for me while I was stuck. He brought me food and worked for over two hours trying to get me out. And his brother brought me water."

The three boys went into the cave at about 2 p. m., Troll says, and left their lunches in the passageway near the entrance.

They had not been in the cave before but Wayne had a map given to him by a friend who had previously explored the underground passages.

Fredric Troll, jr. . . . looks over bruises.

Following the map, the youthful trio clambered up several feet from the floor of the entrance and made their way along a narrow,

EXPECT 10,000 AT CAP AIRPORT EVENT SUNDAY

All-Day Program To Bring Planes and Pilots From Five Counties.

Group mobilization of Civil Air Patrol units from five northcentral Ohio counties at the Mansfield airport next Sunday is expected to attract 10,000 persons to make it a "red letter" day in the history of the airport.

It will be the biggest event ever attempted at the airport and a display of the might of the CAP in this section of Ohio according to J. R. Harrington, airport manager and group CAP commander.

The all-day programs will get under way at 9 a. m. and will be highlighted by a parachute jump by a Mansfield CAP member who will simulate a paratrouper. There will be a demonstration of acrobatic flying which will include inverted flying and snap rolls, slow rolls, loops, and spins.

CAP squadrons from Mnasfield, Marion, Wooster, Lorain, and Sandusky will participate in the exhibition. The out-of-town squadrons will arrive by plane and in automobiles. In the squadrons are private pilots, student pilots, observers, radiomen, photographers, ground crews, crash crews, mechanics, and stenographers.

The squadrons will engage in mass drill review and inspection by state officers, bomb dropping practice, message pick-up from air by the best representative teams, precision flying, and exhibition drill.

Members of the squadrons will have luncheon at the airport and it is expected that spectators who want to stay throughout the day will be able to buy lunches at the airport.

Members of the Mansfield CAP unit, assisted by other military groups will handle the plane traffic and automobile parking. State highway patrolmen and deputy sheriffs have been asked to assist in handling automobile traffic in the airport area.

ARE WE NEXT?

Defense Chief Says Other Air Raid Tests To Be Made.

"Will Mansfield be next to undergo surprise blackout tests?" was the question in the minds of city officials and civilian defense leaders today.

Ralph H. Stone, executive director of the Ohio defense council, today warned all Ohio cities to profit by the experience last Thursday night of Piqua when that Miami county seat was caught flat-footed as state officials and army officers sounded an alert there. There will be other tests, he said.

A News-Journal survey last week showed Mansfielders have little conception of what to do or how to do it in such an emergency. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense coordinator, is engaged in a somewhat deferred effort to recruit defense volunteers to complete the prescribed units at their necessary strength.

ARREST 18 ON TRAFFIC COUNTS

State Patrolmen, City Police Accuse Drivers of Variety of Violations.

Intensifying their campaign against excessive speeding and other traffic violations city and state highway patrolmen arrested 18 drivers over the week-end.

For several weeks, traffic officers have sought to enfore a state recommendation for a 40-mile speed limit which now is augmented by a plea from the Baruch rubber committee for a voluntary compliance with a 35-mile maximum as a means of conserving rubber and gasoline.

In Mansfield Motorcycle Patrolmen Richard Hecht and Earl Korn arrested Charles Schwartz, 58 Hedges street, on the charge of unsafe operation after they pursued him, their report says, at excessive speed over Park avenue west and Park avenue east. Schwartz, according to the patrolmen, dangerously cut around other cars and failed to stop at one red light. He will appear in traffic court Wednesday.

Other local arrests were Byron

SEES DRAFT OF FATHERS IN '43

Hershey Predicts an Army of 13,000,000 and Calls For More Production.

(By International News Service)

ASBURY PARK, N. J. — Predicting an army of between ten and thirteen million men, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director, today foresaw possible induction of married men with children in 1943.

Declaring that induction during this war has been far more rapid than during World War I, General Hershey said that "the prospect of a very large mobilization seems to be in the cards for next year."

"The supply of men for military service," he said, "is limited even when the 18 to 50 age group is considered, because we are rejecting about 33 per cent of those called for duty.

"We will also have to come to the realization that there are not enough single men, that there are not enough married men without children to mobilize, say, between 10 and 13 millions in the United States.

"Longer work weeks for personnel in war production plants is necessary also. We can't keep 20,000 men in a plant working short weeks or loading long weeks. Furthermore I doubt that the people will put up with two-week vacations with pay and short weeks any longer."

General Hershey spoke at the closing session of the annual New Jersey American Legion convention.

Russians Give Up Suburb But Retain Capital

Halt Nazi Wedges As Crucial Test In Battle For Volga City Nears; Reds Claim Germans Are Also Stopped In Drive For Grozny Oil.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—Fresh hordes of Nazi troops smashed today at the approaches to Stalingrad in an obvious all-out effort to storm the city whatever the cost in blood, but the Russians said that after yielding precious ground the Red army halted and pushed back a new penetration southwest of the city.

Both to the west and southwest the Germans poured tanks and armored cars and the new reserves into the bloody struggle, but the mid-day communique indicated the Russians were holding.

Earlier the Russians reported the capture by the Germans of an unidentified "populated place" southwest of Stalingrad. From all reports it was apparent that the crucial test for the beleaguered city was at hand.

(The German high command announced Sunday that German troops were fighting in the southern streets of Stalingrad and that siege lines about the city had been tightened.)

A Soviet tank detachment was credited with halting a German penetration southwest of Stalingrad.

West of the city too the Russians were held on the defensive by masses of troops and tank forces.

In the central Caucasus, the Russians said their forces in the Mozdok sector had halted the German drive toward the Grozny oil fields but that the Nazis were bringing up strong reinforcements and that a new assault was expected momentarily.

Field dispatches said Soviet marines had been brought into action on this inland front and had played a big part in stopping the enemy.

News was lacking on action along the Black sea coast south of fallen Novorossisk where the Germans were believed feeling out Russian strength preparatory to a thrust down the coastal road to the oil port of Batum.

At the northern end of the front the Red army offensive continued in the Volkhov sector toward the rail town of Sinyavino. This fighting was taking place in heavily fortified zones where the Nazis have been entrenched for almost a year.

The Red army was fighting hand-to-hand over a broad area west and southwest of Stalingrad, Pravda said in a front dispatch.

German air units which went up to bomb the Russians were forced to turn back when it became obvious that bombing of the massive close-quarter struggle below would destroy Germans as well as Russians, it was reported.

Pravda said the present battles were as bloody as any so far experienced.

A bitter fight apparently has developed in the Sinyavino area east of Leningrad where the Russians seem to be trying to ease the position of Leningrad in preparation for the second winter of siege.

The high command announced that Soviet forces had "smashed strong enemy defenses and occupied a populated place in this region dispute a German counter-attack.

At Voronezh, on the Don river some 300 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the Germans launched an offensive with one infantry division supported by 100 tanks

STEADY: Allies Keeping Up Air Attack On Jap Bases, Ships

(By Associated Press)

GENERAL M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia —Allied forces held the Japanese invader at bay 40 miles north of Port Moresby for the fourth successive day yesterday while medium bombers dropped 17 tons of bombs on the Japanese base and airfield at Lae and Flying Fortresses attacked three enemy merchant ships and a cruiser off New Guinea a communique said today.

General MacArthur reported patrols active on both sides in the Owen Stanley mountain region where the Japanese have been stalled in their attempted advance on Port Moresby, but the situation "remains unchanged."

In the air war against shipping, one Allied bomb blew the stern off a Japanese vessel near Selae island in the Tanimbar island group between Australia and New Guinea and she was left sinking, the communique said.

Another ship was attacked with machine gun fire in the same raid.

Farther north, off the Kai islands, still another Japanese ship was bombed with unknown result."

Flying fortresses found a Japanese cruiser and destroyer southeast of New Britain on the eastern side of New Guinea and attacked it despite poor weather conditions and intense anti-aircraft fire. Results could not be seen. All the fortresses returned safely.

Allied medium bombers attacked Lae twice within a few minutes

DRAFT: New Law In France Provides Workers For Hitler

(By Associated Press)

VICHY—French employers were ordered to stand by today to assemble crews of workmen—apparently for shipment to Germany—under a sweeping new compulsory labor law which the Vichy government intimated it had decreed to avert the possibility of even more stringent action by the Germans.

Subject to the law are able-bodied Frenchmen between the ages of 18 and 50 and unmarried French women between 21 and 35. Persons in these categories unable to prove they are engaged in work "useful to the country's needs" may be drafted "to effect all labors which the government will judge useful in the higher interests of the nation."

The law, effective with its publication this morning, also provides total state control of employment and working conditions, giving the government power to fix salaries and working hours. Untrained persons may be compelled to attend vocational schools which employers are obliged to set up.

A semi-official statement said the measure was dictated by "hard necessities, both national and international," and that labor would be called upon to make many sacrifices, but it recalled that "even more serious measures have been taken in other countries of very recent date."

"The present law," it said, "will permit us to prevent their being extended to us."

(This may have been a reference to the action taken by the

The WPB's order freezing film won't pinch Hollywood immediately because for a while the companies are allowed as much celluloid as they used in 1941, and they're already using less. Where strict rationing will hurt Hollywood most is in the distribution departments. The companies like to spread prints of their epics around the country's first-run theaters as nearly simultaneously as possible, then cash in on quick subsequent runs through customer interest thus aroused. This makes for a quick money return on their investments. On many films they turn out 200 or 300, even 400 prints, which figures would have to be curtailed sharply under rationing—cutting down the quick returns always considered vital in the past as a guage for future spending.

U. S. WATCHES AS MAINE GOES TO POLLS TODAY

Primary To Furnish Test of Public Opinion, First Since War's Start.

(By International News Service)

Almost two months ahead of the nation, Maine holds its general election today, furnishing the first acid test of public opinion since America entered the war.

Politicos predict that the Republicans will win the gubernatorial and senatorial races in Maine and probably in two of the state's three congressional districts.

Gov. Sumner Sewall (R), seeking re-election, is opposed by George W. Lane, jr., Democratic banker of Lewiston. U. S. Senator Wallace M. White (R) is running for a third term in congress against Fulton J. Redman (D).

State Democratic leaders believe that their party's chief strength lies in the first congressional district where former Gov. Louis J. Brann (D), opposed Robert Hale (R), former member of the state legislature.

Elsewhere, this week will virtually wind up the state primaries and conventions for selection of nominees for the November elections. Primaries will be held tomorrow in Massachusetts, Michigan, New Jersey, New Hampshire and Wisconsin.

Also sharing interest with Maine today is Connecticut, where the Republican convention is being held for the state's fourth congressional district. There was every indication that Mrs. Clare Boothe Luce would be chosen as the GOP nominee over her five opponents.

In Massachusetts, Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge is likely to win the Republican primary by a large majority over Courtenay Crocker, 61-year-old Boston lawyer.

The Democratic senate nomination is being sought by four candidates, including Rep. Joseph E. Casey. Massachusetts voters also will nominate candidates for governor and for 14 house seats. Gov. Leverett Saltonstall, Republican, is up for a second term.

The Michigan primaries find Rev. Gerald K. Smith, former lieutenant of Huey P. Long, seeking the Republican nomination for senator against Circuit Judge Homer S. Ferguson of Detroit. Gov. Murray D. Van Wagoner and Sen. Prentiss Brown, Democrats, are unopposed. Rep. Clare Hoffman, consistent foe of the New Deal and a pre-war isolationist, is opposed by State Senator J. T. Hammond and Benjamin J. Burton, a political newcomer.

OPENS DOORS TO MEXICO WORKERS

U. S. Allows Farm Help to Cross Border If Needed.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Authorization for the immigration service to grant temporary admission to the United States to Mexican agricultural workers was issued today by Attorney General Biddle. The Mexican workers will be admitted when the need for them is certified by the U. S. employment service.

Biddle's action implements an agreement between the United States and Mexico, announced Aug. 6, under which Mexican farm laborers may be temporarily brought to this country to meet wartime agricultural labor shortages, particularly in the southwest.

DEATH CLAIMS KROGER CHIEF

Albert Morrill, 67, Had Headed National Grocery Chain For 12 Years.

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI — Funeral services were arranged today for Albert Henry Morrill, 67, Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. president for 12 years.

Morrill died unexpectedly of a heart ailment yesterday at his suburban home near Montgomery.

The stocky, grey-haired executive succeeded William H. Albers as Kroger president in 1930 after serving as the firm's general counsel.

Born and reared in Cincinnati, Morrill was a grandson of William Holmes McGuffey, famous for his readers. He attended Dartmouth college and the University of Cincinnati Law school. In 1900 he began law practice which he interrupted during the first World war to serve with an artillery unit.

A former president of the National Chain Store association and a director of the Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railroad, Morrill was active in civic affairs as co-chairman of the recent War Chest drive, Community Chest director and former Y. M. C. A. director and children's home trustee.

His widow and two children were out of the state when his death occurred. Mrs. Lily Logan Morrill, his widow, was in Charlottesville, Va.; his daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Holloday, was in California visiting her husband, an army air corps captain; and his son Logan, was in Washington where he is a quartermaster corps captain.

ARMY BOARD BEGINS PROBE OF BOMBER CRASH THAT KILLED 7

(By International News Service)

COLUMBIA, S. C.—A board of inquiry today began an investigation into the crash of an army bomber near the Columbia air base yesterday which resulted in the death of seven airmen.

The crash occurred, according to officers, as the plane was returning from a routine training flight and on making a landing approach.

Victims were identified as Lieuts. Francis W. Sparks, Martin O. Vangsness, Donald V. Urquhart, James F. Attridge, jr.; Staff Sgt. Charles O. Frame; Sgt. Leon O. Gallie, and Pvt. Roland G. Braun.

SAVANNAH, Ga.—(INS)—Army authorities today announced the death of two airmen in the crash of their dive bomber in the Beaufort river near Parris Island while practicing dives and formation flying.

The victims were Second Lieut. Richard Burton, 22, pilot, of Johnstown, N. Y., and Staff Sgt. Harry Massey, 21, gunner, of Memphis, Tenn.

TUCSON, Ariz.—(INS)— Planes from Colorado and New Mexico bases took up the search today for an army bomber reported missing Saturday on a flight from Omaha, Neb., to the Tucson air base.

Army authorities at the Tucson base reported that eight officers and two enlisted men were aboard. The four-engined plane left Omaha Thursday morning and was scheduled to complete its navigation training flight at Tucson Friday.

An unsuccessful search for the missing plane was made in Arizona and it was believed that the craft might be found in the mountain country of Colorado or New Mexico over which its route was scheduled.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Relatives Find W. G. Basting Dead in Kitchen.

An employe of Martin Steel Products company for the past 20 years, William G. Basting, 61, died Sunday at his home, 575 Lily street. He was found dead by relatives in the kitchen and Acting Coroner A. C. Biddle said death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Basting was born in Austria-Hungary and came to Mansfield 36 years ago.

He is survived by four sons, Joseph, Peter, and William, jr., of Mansfield, and Nicholas, of Salt Lake City, Utah; two daughters, Mrs. W. W. Crick, of Tampa, Fla., and Gertrude, Mansfield; one brother, Anton, and a sister, Mrs. Anna Frederick, both of Mansfield, and eight grandchildren.

Msgr. R. C. Goebel will conduct funeral services Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church. Interment will be in the Mansfield Catholic cemetery. The body will be at the Geiger funeral home until time of services.

The sight of a man painstakingly picking up small fragments in the middle of the highway at the Park avenue west and Marion avenue intersection yesterday afternoon caused both motorists and pedestrians to inquire if he had broken something. He explained that one of his children had thrown a small bottle from the car and that the glass had splintered over the street. He was carefully picking up every piece he could find, even the smallest, to save the tires of other motorists, he said. The man who was thus helping with the war effort was J. K. Eccles, 141 South Mulberry street.

Controversy over the city's sale of $52,000 worth of municipal bonds to cover assessed portions of costs in 14 street and sewer improvements in 1941 ended today when the Richland county board of sinking fund trustees notified City Auditor Paul L. Kelley they would purchase the issue at a 1½ per cent interest rate. Ten days ago Mayor W. J. Locke, chairman of the city's Investment board, successfully lobbied against a councilmanic proposal to authorize the board to purchase the municipal issue in order to save interest charges to the city. Locke, in his lobby tactics, told individual members of council it was a "patriotic duty to stick to the original rule to invest city money only in government bonds." He also declared that, as chairman, he had not voted in favor of the proposed change although minutes of the meeting of the board say the decision was unanimous. Other members of the board say Locke voted for the city bond purchase privilege.

W. D. WISE DIES

Shelby Salesbook District Manager Succumbs.

SHELBY—Walter D. Wise, 49, Cleveland division sales manager of the Shelby Sales book company, died unexpectedly of a heart attact at his home in Chagrin Falls, Sunday night.

Mr. Wise, a native of Shelby, had been associated with the company since 1917. He moved to Cleveland from Shelby in 1922 to work as a salesman out of the Cleveland office. In 1931 he was promoted to the position of division sales manager.

He was active in Boy Scout work and was a member of the board of directors of the Kiwanis club in Cleveland. He also belonged to the Cleveland Advertising club.

Surviving are the wife and two children, Walter Wise, jr., with the armed forces, and Ada of Chagrin Falls.

Funeral services will be held at the home Wednesday afternoon but arrangements are still incomplete.

ARRESTED IN WEST, ADMITS TWO KILLINGS

Ex-Soldier Had Picked Up Two Girls, Fled Across U. S. After Murders.

(By International News Service)

SANTA MARIA, Cal. — The brutal slaying of two Kenosha, Wis., women social workers after they were forced to disrobe at gun-point on a lonely country road near Tomah, Wis., last Monday was confessed today by a 21-year-old army deserter, arrested in Santa Maria after he had fled across the continent with two other girls.

The bullet-riddled, nude bodies of the two women, Miss Neil Pietrangeli, 30, and Miss Dorothy Baun, 32, were found last Tuesday on a little-traveled country road near Tomah.

Federal agents at St. Paul, Minn., identified Robert Taylor Bailey, army deserter from Fort Bragg, N. C., as the murder suspect and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Bailey told authorities he shot and killed the two Wisconsin women and then headed for California in their car. He said he intended to kill his brother, W. R. Bailey, a soldier at Fort Ord, for reporting him to a parole officer five years ago in Mississippi.

En route to California, Bailey related, he picked up two young girls, Alberta Coons and Pauline Conley, both 16, at Sioux City, Ia., and brought them to Santa Maria.

Bailey's arrest was made last Saturday when Miss Coons' aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Simmeon, formerly of Sioux City, became suspicious of Bailey and notified Santa Maria police.

Authorities found personal effects of the slain Wisconsin women in the car Bailey was driving. A fully-loaded army .45-caliber revolver with which Bailey said he shot to death his victims also was found in the car.

Youthful Genius In Explosive and Companion Jailed

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—A 14-year-old "genius in explosives" and his 13-year-old companion, who stood guard during raids on a high school chemistry laboratory, were held at the juvenile detention home today for investigation.

The boys were taken into custody yesterday when police found "a completely equipped" explosives laboratory along with numerous firearms and 500 rounds of shotgun ammunition in the home of one of the boys.

The "chemistry genius" was held by police after he was trapped in the laboratory of University School while trying to take a large quantity of chemicals. His companion stood outside the school armed with a cap and ball pistol under orders to "shoot to kill" if the police appeared.

Police said that they found two rifles, an old pistol, several sabers, a wooden model of a Thompson machine gun, a friction tape bomb filled with gravel and "scores of formulas" for making explosives in the youth's laboratory.

RUSSIANS STILL HOLDING NAZIS AT STALINGRAD

Admit Loss of Suburb Before German Attack But Rally To Stop Advance.

but in the severe fight which developed on the western bank of the river, 2,000 German officers and men were killed or wounded, the Soviet information bureau said.

Front dispatches said the Russians, ordered to hold Stalingrad or die defending it, were clinging to every pillbox in the defense girdle until hope was gone and then storming out to grapple hand-to-hand with the Germans.

British and Russian Planes Attack Axis

LONDON —(AP)— British and Russian bombers, delivering a new twin blow to the flanks of the Axis, smashed at the northwest German port of Bremen last night in a RAF attack probably hundreds of planes strong, and raided Bucharest and the Ploesti oil region of Rumania from bases deep in Russia.

Lone flying British bombers were back over northwestern Germany again at dawn in fololw-up attacks, the air ministry reported, announcing a total loss of 19 British bombers.

The air ministry said the 100th attack of the war on Bremen was delivered by a "very strong force," a phrase which was taken here to indicate that bombers by the hundreds were used.

Returning pilots said they unloaded their tons of explosives over the Weser river port by the light of raging fires whose red glow they could see for 100 miles on their flight back to base.

The Berlin radio, broadcasting the German communique, said Russian bombers were over eastern Germany during the same night, and quoted dispatches from Bucharest that the Rumanian capital and Ploesti region to the north were attacked by Soviet bombers.

The dispatches described the Ploesti attacks as ineffective.

Rome Says British Fail in Raid on Tobruk

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts) — (AP) — Sea-borne British troops, supported by parachutists, attempted a landing last night to pinch off the vital Axis supply port of Tobruk, some 300 miles west of the Egyptian battlefront, but were beaten off by the German-Italian garrison, the Italian high command announced today.

The landing attempt, in which a force of British cruisers and destroyers participated, was preceded by a violent bombardment by a large number of RAF planes, a communique said.

Two of the British warships were reported hit by shell fire and one of the vessels was said to have sunk later..

(The Berlin radio carried a similar announcement, but there was no immediate confirmation of the reports from any Allied source, the British communique from Cairo mentioning only minor air and land activity on the Egyptian front yesterday.)

Tobruk, about 75 miles west of the Egyptian frontier, has been in Axis hands since June 22 and is an important supply port for Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies in Egypt.

Claim Seven Caught On French Coast

BERLIN—(By official German wireless) — (INS) — The German high command today claimed "frustration" of a British attempt to land seven men near Cherbourg. All were killed or captured, it was asserted. The party was said to consist of five officers, one non-commissioned officer, and one private.

(Editor's Note: A British attempt to land a squad of only seven men sounds absurd on the face of it. Past Commando raids have used several hundred men at the least, while some 10,000 are reported to have participated in the major attack on Dieppe.)

The German statement said:

"The landing party's boat was sunk. Three British and one fighting French officer were taken prisoner. The others were killed."

LONDON —(INS)— Headquarters of Britain's combined operations (Commando) division had no comment today on Berlin claims of an attempted raid on Cherbourg.

Mansfield Youth, Trapped In Cave 6 Hours, Rescued

curving tunnel that declined sharply at one point — a point Troll will long remember—to a broader passage opening on a subterranean chamber.

From this point they explored for some time and at 4 p. m. started back toward the entrance.

The two smaller boys went ahead, and when he reached the sharp narrow incline Troll was forced to lie down and "snake" his way up the mossy tube-like hole in the rock.

It was dark down there and his flashlight showed the other boys gaining ground Troll wriggled harder. He wriggled so hard he kicked off his shoes.

"Then I couldn't get any traction at all," he said. "Before I knew it, my hips and shoulders were both wedged tightly against the rock and I couldn't move."

Troll called to his friends

"Wayne came back," he recalled. "It was a little after 4 o'clock then and for two hours he pulled and trugged trying to help me but I couldn't move ahead or back.

"At six I said I was sort of hungry, so Wayne went and got me his sandwiches. Mine had got lost somewhere.

"But I couldn't eat very much. I was too cold. I think I shivered all the time I was caught down there. In fact I shivered so much that toward the end I was so weak I could hardly move any more.

"Dale went outside the cave to a creek and washed out a pickle jar and brought me a drink," Troll continued.

"At 8 o'clock we decided there was no use trying to get me out by ourselves any more so Wayne gave me his flashlight—in case mine failed—and took the car to Butler where he called our parents

"That was the worst time—while I was all alone down there. The cold was bad enough, but when I began to hear a rumbling noise and I thought either that there was a rock slide or that it was storming and lightning might strike the ground and I'd be electrocuted in that wet hole.

"But it was just a mouse making all the racket!

"I yelled and that scared him. He ran right over me.

"Next visitor I had was a bat that came flying through the cave. After he'd gone I heard a scraping noise and thought about snakes. There was a snake hole in front of me, but I managed to get a rock over that.

"Well, that scraping turned out to be the mouse again. He came back and sat down in front of me and nibbled at sandwiches. This time I didn't yell"

Meanwhile in Butler, the two Murphy youths had told their story to Mrs. Dale Carr who summoned her husband and a friend, Cleo Calhoun, both of whom knew something about the cave. They left at once to start the rescue.

Mrs. Carr also announced Troll's plight at the outdoor movie being held in Butler.

"When I finally did get out, there must have been 200 people waiting around with picks and shovels to help if they could. That certainly made me feel swell about the whole town of Butler"

Carr and Calhoun reached the cave at about 10 p. m.

While Calhoun held a flashlight, Carr worked his way down the pas-Carr worked his way down the passage, seized Troll's arms and dragged him free. Carr's exertions loosed a rock which fell on his ankle and shackled his leg.

After Calhoun had succeeded in removing the rock, the two men dragged Troll to the entrance passageway, lowered him and helped him out of the cave's mouth.

Robert Small, 500 South Main street, who had been notified by Wayne, arrived at the cave shortly before Calhoun and Carr but had been unable to free Troll.

"David Brunk, 216 Vennum avenue, heard about it, too," Troll said. "He was in bed with a toothache but he got up and showed my parents how to drive to the cave"

"When I got home, a doctor treated my bruises and cuts," Troll said, "and then gave me a sedative."

"Oh yes," he added, "whoever drew that map of the cave knew what he was doing. He had named the place where I got stuck "Horror Passage."

TWO INJURED IN ENGINE BLAST

Locomotive Explosion Throws Trainmen From Cab.

RAVENNA—(AP)—Two B. & O. trainmen from New Castle, Pa., were under treatment in Robinson Memorial hospital here today for burns and bruises suffered in a locomotive explosion.

The blast occurred last night as their freight train was passing the Meadowview golf course about thre miles west of Ravenna.

C. B. Butts, about 30, the fireman, is in a serious condition from burns, bruises and severe shock, and the engineer, J. M. Carmichael, about 45, suffered less serious burns and bruises. The explosion threw both men out of their cab.

AUG. 15 MADE FREEZING DATE IN WAGE BILL

Senate Also To Tell President To Stabilize Farm Prices Not Lower Than Parity.

to Sept. 15 if the senate banking committee decided this was necessary.

The measure provides for retention of all safeguards in the fair labor standards act.

Brown said he and Senator Wagner (D-NY), co-author of the bill, had found it impossible thus far to perfect provisions which would place floors under wages and farm prices. He added that chairman Steagall (D-Ala) might offer in his chamber a bill providing for a floor under farm prices.

Brown said the president's general stabilization authority would be broad enough so that he could deal with such factors as proposed utility rate increases. The general powers, he commented, would be "as broad as anybody wants them in that respect."

He said he had explained the bill to many senators and had yet to encounter any opposition. He indicated that the tentative draft also was acceptable to the president.

Brown said the president's control over wages and salaries would be broad enough to cover pay increases given voluntarily by employers. It would cover salaries as well as wages. The controls would not aply to applications for wage increases now pending before the war labor board.

The measure also would extend operation of the price control act for one year from June 30, 1943.

Brown explained that the new measure would contain provisions similar to those in the price control law by which the act could be suspended by a concurrent resolution of congress or by presidential proclamation.

Labor controls were added after legislators became convinced that farm state lawmakers would balk at trimming price ceilings below 110 per cent of parity unless a formula for limiting wages was provided too.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley after a conference between senate and house leaders yesterday, said there was no intention of establishing price ceilings at less than parity, or the market price of a recent date, whichever was higher.

Observers noted that among those attending the conference was Senator Bankhead (D., Ala.) who is a leader among farm state lawmakers and an outspoken advocate of full parity returns for agriculture.

Barkley said the bill would embrace both farm prices and labor, give the president "all the power he needs," and authorize him to "bring about a general stabilization of farm products and wages."

Barring unforeseen developments, Barkley said, congress would be able to have the measure on the statute books by the Oct. 1 deadline set by Mr. Roosevelt.

Film Stars Arrive Tomorrow For City's Big Bond Program

morning. A maximum of 250 guests can be accommodated at the luncheon.

Chairman Eberly said applicants for reservations may pay their money and receive their bonds and luncheon tickets before noon Tuesday at the hotel.

Price of admission is $76 which includes the purchase of a war bond for $75 and a $1 luncheon charge. The bonds mature at $100 so the purchaser nets a $24 profit.

The three Hollywood stars will arrive by automobile shortly before noon tomorrow from Akron. They will be met at the city limits by motorcycle patrolmen who will escort them to the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Following the luncheon they will go to the Westinghouse plant for a rally from 1:45 to 2 p. m. Employes of the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company, Tappan Stove company, and Humphryes Manufacturing company will attend the Westinghouse rally.

The stars will appear at another bond rally at 2.15 p. m. at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant, and at 2:40 p. m. at the Ohio Brass company.

A big city-wide rally will be held at 3 p. m. at the west side of Central park where Miss Massey, who has appeared in a number of singing roles in the movies, will lead in the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Each of the three stars will speak at the rally and the CIO Local 711 and Senior high school bands will play.

Purchasers of war bonds from the $25 denomination up will have a chance to meet the stars and get their autographed photos at the park. Purchasers will buy their bonds from representatives of the city's four banks and post-office in a roped enclosure and then go to another table to get the stars' autographs. Sixty girls will sell war stamp corsages in the downtown section.

G. J. Baird will be master of ceremonies at the Central park program, while Mayor W. J. Locke will greet the movie stars. Fred Hout, war bond chairman for September, and Paul M. Eliot, county chairman, will appear on the program with other leaders in the bond and stamp campaign.

Troops from the Engineers' battalion at Bucyrus, under the command of Col. Lester Meek, will serve as a guard of honor for the movie celebrities who are scheduled to leave Mansfield late in the afternoon.

WAAC CHIEF TO MISS OHIO MEET

Mrs. Hobby Forced To Cancel Columbus Appearance.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby's scheduled visit to Columbus today to speak at a one-day conference of women's club leaders called by the women's interest section of the war department public relations bureau, was cancelled because the director of the WAAC was called back to Washington from Des Moines, Ia., on army business.

The program opened with Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, chief of the Women's Interests section, presiding. Sessions were closed to the public.

THEY'RE GOOD

WASHINGTON—(AP)—War and navy department announcements said today the following Ohio industrial plants have received army-navy production awards for ou standing war work performance: General Motors corporation, Packard Electrical division, Warren; Hobard Brothers company, Troy, and American Rolling Mills company, plants in Zanesville, Hamilton, Dayton and Middletown (east works and central works).

FRENCH LABOR DRAFT ORDERED

Employers Told To Assemble Crews, Apparently To Be Sent To Germany.

Germans last week in instituting conscription of manpower in the conquered duchy of Luxembourg.

There is no limitation on where persons drafted for labor under the law may be sent, although full details on how it would be applied were not published at once. Still uncertain was the question of how foreigners resident in France would be affected.

Infractions of the law are punishable by prison sentences ranging up to five years and by fines up to 30,000 gold francs. These penalties may be doubled in the case of second offenders.

Promulgation of the decree follows a government campaign to recruit skilled workmen to be sent to Germany in exchange for the release of French war prisoners in a ratio of three workers for one prisoner.

Thus far, however, only one trainload of "relieved" prisoners has arrived in France.

British Forces in Madagascar Push on

(By United Press)

LONDON — British troops in Madagascar occupied Maevatanana on the main road from Majunga to Tananarive, the capital, "early yesterday morning," while the column moving inland from the southernmost landing at Morondava is "continuing successfully, meeting little or no opposition," the war office announced in a communique today.

Maevatanana is almost 100 miles inland from Majunga along the Betsiboka river on the 240-mile road to the Madagascar capital of Tananarive.

From Maevatanana, the communique said, British "leading elements are moving on Andreba." This indicated that the forces might be fanning out to cut off the northern section of the island, inasmuch as Andreba does not lie on the road to Tananarive, but is 60 miles inland from the east coast on the only road connecting northern points with the capital.

Don't Kid Yourself We Could LOSE This War

Mister, if you think this war's a cinch, better read your paper or listen to the radio. You'll change your mind—QUICK!

If you think we're going to march to Berlin and Tokyo just because we're RIGHT—forget it!

So far in this war the old saying has come true—might makes right.

People just as clean and decent as we are—just as righteous—just as patriotic, have been ground to the dust under the hob-nailed boots of other people trained and toughened for one purpose—WAR.

Choose NOW. Either WE give our boys the planes, tanks, guns and ships they've GOT to have to win—or we're letting them march to their defeat, and our destruction. Planes cost money. Tanks don't grow on trees. And the storks don't bring sub-chasers.

WE'VE got to pay for them. "WE" means ALL of us. Including YOU. How? By buying WAR BONDS. By putting ten per cent of every dollar we earn into the Payroll Savings Plan. And every time our savings amount to $18.75 we get a Bond, worth $25.00 in ten years.

We've had enough war slogans, victory songs and "up-and-at-'em" talk. Now we've got to talk with bombs and machine guns — TOUGH TALK — FIGHTING TALK—the only talk our enemies understand.

And if, every payday, we don't set aside every nickel, dime or dollar we can possibly scrape together for War Bonds, we're letting our boys down.

That's the truth, every word of it—AND WE KNOW IT! That's why our members are investing 10% or more in War Bonds.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1942.

The world may have been made in seven days—but it's taking much longer to make it over.

One of the islands in the Solomon group is Mundi Mundi, but that's no reason why it should be doubly blue.

Of course War Savings Bonds are a "good investment"—unless Hitler wins, in which event you'd have much more serious things to worry about.

Civilian Defense Interest Lags

WHEN a report is circulated that a "mad dog" has been at large in the community, with a few persons endangered by contact, there is an immediate stir of interest and concern, with all possible precautions taken to guard against hydrophobia.

That is a danger that can be visualized by everyone and presents what is recognized as a real peril to children and adults alike.

But when it comes to civilian defense against what is considered by a majority as a remotely possible enemy attack, or civilian precautions against unusual wartime hazards, that is a quite different matter.

"Take therefore no thought of the morrow. . . Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," seems to be the accepted motto, rather than adopting a policy of locking the barn before the horse is stolen.

Admitted lack of knowledge of what best procedure would be in the event of an actual air raid alarm, or even of a practice blackout, is really no more than acknowledging absence of interest in the subject—which has not been given any considerable emphasis in this area.

Need for urging additional men to volunteer for civilian defense duty is another evidence of failure to recognize any immediate danger to be guarded against, as every Mansfielder would undoubtedly respond quickly to any call that came as a result of a threat to community safety.

Just as firemen must be in constant readiness for fires that may not occur, so must the civilian defense organization be set up to meet emergencies that may not come, and practice blackouts are designed to spread knowledge of what must be done quickly and effectively if the time ever comes when blackness is vitally important—and when failure might bring destruction.

It is not unlikely that Mansfield will be unexpectedly subjected to a test blackout soon, and there is obvious need for better public understanding of this phase of civilian defense.

Discipline Is Wartime Necessity

DISCIPLINE has always been hard for Americans to accept. From the beginning, the ideal of life on this continent has been individual freedom of action as well as national freedom. And it is unthinkable that foreign compulsion should be imposed on us. But the time has now come for the American people to subject themselves to such discipline as they have never faced before.

The fighting forces of this nation are necessarily organized and disciplined. No war can be fought otherwise. Their status is accepted as a natural and normal fact of war-time defense. There are now more than four million Americans under such discipline, and the time is coming when there will be ten millions. These citizen-soldiers take up uncomplainingly the duties imposed on them for the protection of their homes and country.

It is necessary also that the remainder of adult Americans, while not in uniform or formal organization, shall conduct themselves as a civilian army, safeguarding the home front and in every possible way supporting the fighting forces.

From now on, in this most perilous time of national life and modern civilization, every American should regard himself as a soldier and take pride in conducting himself as honorably and patriotically as if he were in uniform.

Some Christmas Gifts Will Go Far

ONLY 87 more shopping days until Christmas—which seems to give plenty of time, except for the fact that this year Christmas gifts will have to be sent to many far parts of the world and time must be allowed for transportation and possible delays.

Warning is given that Christmas parcels intended for men in foreign service should be mailed during October and it is promised that the government will give such parcels prompt handling in spite of pressing need for cargo space to carry war materials.

Don't send bulky articles, the government asks. Confine parcels to about shoe box size. Don't send several smaller parcels—choose gifts that can be packed into one parcel.

If you have no member of the family, close relative or friend in the service, try to think of some fellow you know who might not get a gift and who would appreciate one from you.

No American in the service of his country should be forgotten on Christmas day—and it will be better to have gifts reach him BEFORE than AFTER Christmas.

Natural vs. Artificial Beauty

TIMES CHANGE, and some recent changes may bring a shock to college girls. The "Amherst Student" finds something added to the campus and celebrates the discovery as follows:

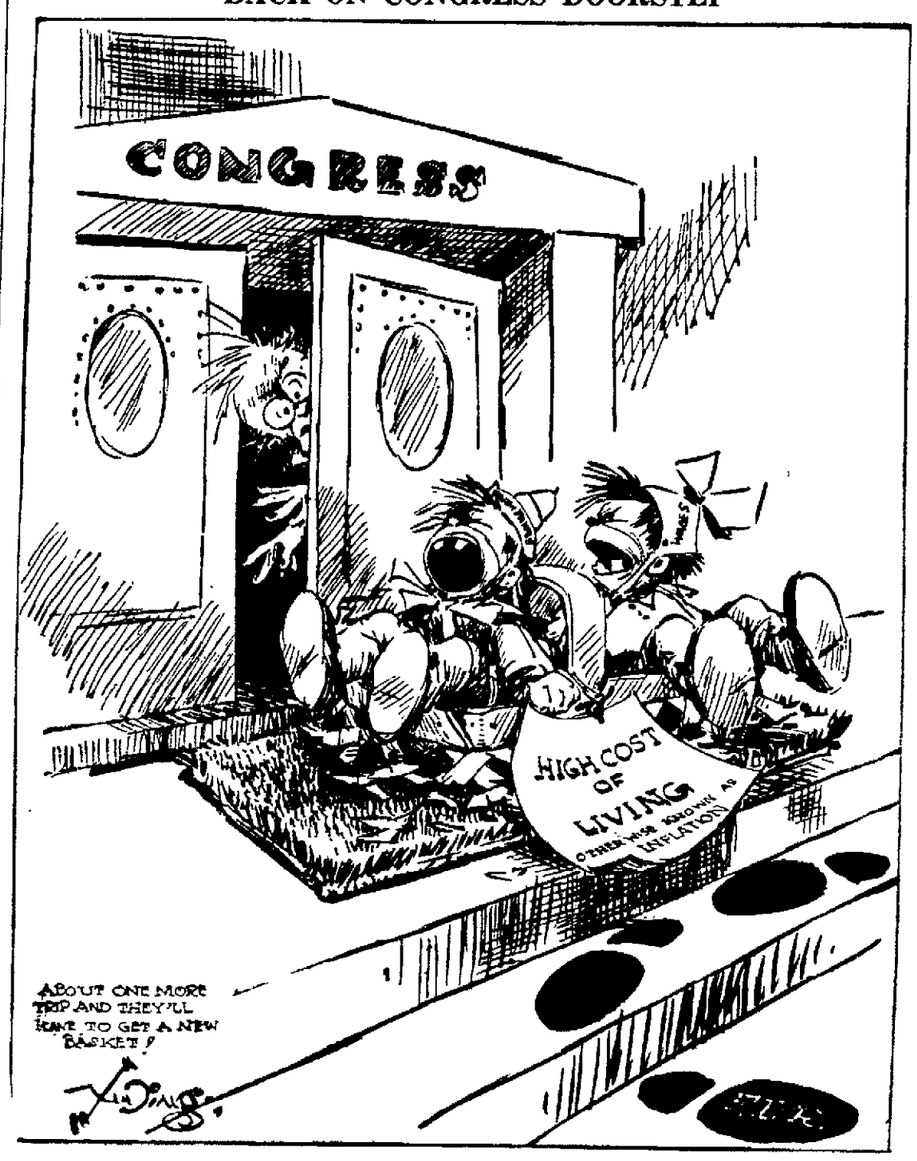
"To contemplate the shock of females as God made them," says that discerning publication, "free of lipstick, fuzzy sweaters and $40 sport suits, is very pleasing indeed. For our time the era of collegiate glamor girls has lost its punch. The sight of blue jeans, bare legs and headkerchiefs will henceforth leave us listless and unimpressed."

This eulogy is in honor of the vanguard of 900 "crisply uniformed WAVES" constituting a sort of feminine Annapolis in process of establishment on the Smith college campus. The men think it's wonderful and proudly welcome the new outfit. As compared with the "casually collegiate attire of their Smith colleagues," they declare, the uniformed lasses are impressive enough to "faze even the most sophisticated senior."

All of which adds to the effectiveness of the nation's war effort, and may even inspire some sartorial changes among the college women.

That word, "trillion," which had long been reserved for astronomical calculations, finds more practical use as a news release heralds: "War Appropriations Nearing Quarter Trillion Dollar Mark." To write a trillion place 12 ciphers after the figure 1—thus indicating a thousand billion.

BACK ON CONGRESS' DOORSTEP



Japan Is Ready to Attack Siberia

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—If that all-out attack by the Japanese on Siberia about which we have been hearing so much is really ordered it will be the first time in this war that the Japanese army moved in force. This sounds strange when we remember Malaya, Singapore, Burma, the Dutch East Indies, and China, but comparatively it is true.

The best estimates in official hands here as to the disposition of the Japanese army do not total quite a million men in all the war theaters named. In fact even including China the strength of the Japanese army in those regions probably is not more than 750,000 men.

For instance the highest estimate of the number of Japanese troops employed in the Philippines was 150,000. Some army officers figure it as low as 100,000. It was the cutting off of supplies, food, medicine and munitions to the American forces, which decided that campaign, not overwhelming superiority of numbers on the part of the Japanese.

BOTH in the Philippines and in Malaya it was tremendous and overwhelming superiority in the air which contributed much to the success of the Japanese.

It is well known here that the Japanese army numbered at least 3,000,000 men. Some experts put it higher. Subtracting the full million, which is the highest estimate of Japanese troops so far employed, this leaves 2,000,000 available for something else.

The question is—what?

Nearly everyone, in and out of authority, and regardless of which of the United Nations he serves, believes that the big effort will be in Siberia, Japan has long coveted the northern half of Saghalien Island, owned by Russia, and also the maritime provinces of Siberia. Some think she would like to extend her sway from 500 to 1,000 miles inland.

Actually, with the conquests already made, that would give her all of Eastern Asia, from the North Pole down to the Indian Ocean, and right up to the boundary of India. Also she has the rich Dutch Islands, which she would very much like to hold forever.

But she knows that she cannot hold them unless Germany wins the war. If Germany should crack, whether in the near future or after several more years of fighting, the Japanese war lords know perfectly well it would just be a matter of time until the United Nations forced her to disgorge everything she has so easily conquered in this war—and perhaps even some that she had before, for instance Korea.

JAPAN is utterly selfish, but it would be intelligent selfishness to contribute something—as little as possible for the time being—to make sure that Germany wins this war—or at least wins heavily enough to produce a stalemate instead of going on to eventual defeat.

This is believed here to be the logic which has resulted in Japan's deliberately weakening her force in China in the last month. Her big push, it is thought, is about to start on Siberia, in the hope not only of winning what she wants there, but of so weakening Russia that German success will be assured in the European theater.

What the Thyroid Gland Does.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FOR some reason that is not very clear to me my mail of late has been full of inquiries every day about the thyroid gland and goiter. I say the reason is not clear to me because usually when I get a lot of inquiries on one subject it is because I have written on it. But I have had no articles on the thyroid for some time. Besides according to our experience in my part of the world goiter is diminishing. Still the letters keep coming in.

Perhaps it is the war. It is well known that in any time of great stress, anxiety, and tragedy, goiter increases. Any sudden shock will do it. Soldiers have been known to come out of battle with a fully developed case of exophthalmic goiter.

The primary symptoms of the exophthalmic form of goiter—staring eyes, trembling, sweating nervousness are the symptoms of a fear reaction. So the war might be the explanation of my readers' interest in the thyroid.

I will endeavor to answer the letters en masse by explaining as best I can in this and the following articles the functions the thyroid performs in the body and how it goes wrong.

Location Of Thyroid Gland.

The thyroid gland is located at the base of the neck, is divided into two parts which lie on each side of the Adam's apple and are each about the size of the ball of your thumb.

It is a highly cellular organ which means the cells elaborate a secretion. The secretion is absorbed by the blood and goes to all parts of the body. All secretions do something. What does the thyroid secretion do?

Well, we know pretty well what it does, at least we know what it does when the gland is normal and healthy. It stimulates every cell in the body to activity. Cells have to be kept up to a certain level of activity — the general activities common to all cells consist in absorbing food, using it, breaking it down and sending the by product back to the blood to be excreted.

Cells also have special functions—muscle cells contract and do work, nerve cells carry impulses, etc. But the basal metabolism, as the physiologists call it, the breaking up and utilization of food product and air is presided over by the thyroid gland.

Body Heat.

Your body heat is what it is because the thyroid stimulates all the cells to activity: their use of chemicals makes heat, just as the use of a fire makes heat by utilization of chemicals.

That is why the best test for the condition and activity of the thyroid gland is the so-called basal metabolism test. Those of you who have ever had it remember it as breathing into a tin can back and forth. The can is filled with pure oxygen and the test consists in seeing how much oxygen you consume in a certain given time.

For every person of a certain weight and size the amount of oxygen used can be calculated within quite definite limits. If your thyroid gland is working too much, if it is stimulating the cells of the body to excessive activity your basal metabolism will be up and vice versa.

One-Minute Test.

1. What woman today holds the highest rank in the United States Army?
2. From what is shellac made?
3. Name the United States author and lecturer who was recently assaulted in Argentina.

Words of Wisdom.

Let the children share the sugar rationing with the rest of the family. Don't give up your share to the children. You will only make them selfish and inconsiderate of others if you do. If, for their health, they need more than adults, find out how much and make them stick to that amount.

Hints on Etiquette.

If there is a rule about smoking in certain public vehicles and public places, observe that rule. Don't think it "smart" and "cute" to disobey it.

Lack of Replacement Resources Will Cut Hitler's Striking Power

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

A LOT OF NAILS of one sort or another are being hammered into Hitler's coffin while he is devoting all his energy to his offensive against the Caucasus, and one of the stoutest is the scourge of bombing Germany is undergoing from the concerted efforts of British, American and Russian air-fleets.

Come another spring, the fuehrer is going to need more strength than he ever has massed before and this aerial bombardment likely will have brought him very low in striking power unless he pulls a rabbit out of the hat and annihilates (to use his favorite word) the Bolshevist fighting-machine.

This intensified bombing—such as the Royal Air Force cut loose against Duesseldorf last Thursday night—is producing two devastating effects: First, it is wiping out vast industrial areas which are an integral part of Hitler's armament production. Second, it is raising havoc with the Reich's dilapidated rail transport system and endangering communications with the fighting front.

These mass raids are producing an unprecedented devastation which cannot be replaced because Hitler lacks the resources for reconstruction. Every industrial center which is virtually wiped out—and the Allied operations are approaching total destruction these days—represents the loss of a vital foundation stone for his war structure.

When you couple this with the established fact that the Reich is short of many essential resources, and already is slipping down from the peak of production, you get a picture that looks mighty good for the Allies.

It means that the opening of the spring fighting will find the fuehrer scraping his production barrel, while the American-British combine will be zooming.

When winter slows the Russian fighting, Hitler will be able to pull back some of his air-fleet for defense of his industries, unless he embarks on fresh adventures in the Mediterranean zone. However, he will find Britain and America holding superiority in the air, and gaining in strength daily.

Indeed, Major General Carl Spaatz, commander of U. S. Army air forces in Europe, the other day declared our Flying Fortresses are the key to mastery of the air over Europe. That means absolute control, which is a high climb from the superiority now held. It means the domination necessary to permit of a successful invasion of the western continent with land forces.

The high altitude precision bombing which our pilots are carrying out in daylight may not be feasible during the winter, but it is expected that the night bombing can be continued.

Watching Trends

—By JOHN GROVER

WASHINGTON — One of the few blessings of this war is that Uncle Sam is meeting some swell people in this world he hardly knew existed until now.

One of the latest acquaintances and maybe someday one of our best neighbors is that little fellow from down under—New Zealand.

You can find all the physical facts about New Zealand in any good encyclopedia, but that won't tell this story. First our military forces made a call on New Zealand. Admiral Ghormley, who bossed the Solomon islands attack, had (and for all I know still does have) his headquarters there. Brig.-Gen. Pat Hurley, one-time secretary of war, is (among other things) minister to New Zealand.

FROM all reports, there is nowhere else in foreign lands where U. S. soldiers, sailors and marines feel more at home. And now The Right Honorable Peter Fraser, prime minister of New Zealand, is visiting Washington, and if he isn't as much at home on Pennsylvania avenue as he is on the streets of Auckland or Wellington, he's putting on a flawless act.

When General Hurley recently introduced Fraser at a luncheon, he said: "I have been asked many times what New Zealanders are like. If you dropped down in a parachute there and the people came out to meet you, you wouldn't know that you weren't in Kalamazoo, Tulsa, Okla., Dallas or Fort Worth.

"You would notice only two differences. The New Zealanders have a slightly different accent and their coffee isn't the same. United States and New Zealand coffee have two things in common. They both are made from the coffee bean and they both are served in a cup. There, all similarity ends."

BUT apparently what's true of New Zealand coffee isn't true of the people who make it. The Maoris, the Polynesian natives of the island, according to General Hurley, are almost identical with our more advanced Indians. And the whites I've met from there seem no more foreign than a fellow from Texas would seem to one in Kalamazoo.

Prime Minister Fraser is not a New Zealander by birth but he has lived there 32 of his 58 years. He was born in Fearn, Ross-shire, Scotland, and his story is one of those we like to call a "typically American" saga.

At 26, he was working on the docks at Auckland, a longshoreman. He dug ditches. He labored, sweated, read, and devoted what other time he had to politics as a member of the Labor party. He became a member of parliament; a member of the New Zealand cabinet, with the portfolios of education, health and marine; and finally head of his party and prime minister.

Today, with his heavily lined face, his almost bald head fringed with white hair, his spectacles, his paunchiness and medium stature, he could pass for a Down East merchant and what accent he has wouldn't give him away.

Man About Manhattan

Maybe It's Here

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There was a cocktail party for Sonja Henie at Music Hall, but after waiting 35 minutes and finding no Miss Henie I hurried to the elevators and was on my way to the station when a girl got on the elevator at the executives' entrance. It was Miss Henie. "I've just been to your party," I told her, "but I've got a train to catch."

"You should have told me," she said. "I just turned one loose."

ONE of the big scenes from "This Is the Army" is Pvt. Alan Manson's impersonation of Jane Cowl, one of Broadway's most gifted and yet singular actresses. Manson's face registered no emotion whatever when, at the beginning of rehearsals, he was told that the Cowl role was his. He had never seen Miss Cowl.

One must admit that the direction of his scenes is superb. When Miss Cowl saw the show Irving Berlin took her backstage and called Pvt. Manson over. "Jane," he said, "I want you to meet the boy you've been impersonating all your life."

FEW collaborators on Broadway are as far apart physically and tempermentally as Rodgers and Hart, whose newest opus is the great hit "By Jupiter," with Ray Bolger . . . The songs they have written would fill a trunk—"My Heart Stood Still," "Thou Swell," "Ten Cents a Dance," "You Took Advantage of Me," "The Lady Is a Tramp," "I Married an Angel," "With a Song in My Heart," "I Didn't Know What Time It Was"—and a million others. They see eye to eye while composing songs, but on the street, well — one is crazy about nightclubs and the gilded lights, the other prefers quiet evenings at home; one is married and has two kids, the other is single; the short one (Larry) smokes cigars; while Dick (that's Rodgers) goes for cigarettes. Hart's dress is on the loud side; Rodgers is more somber in tone . . . In the 20 years or more they have been in show business, they have never worked with anyone else.

Inspiration is okay at the right time, they explain, but when you write songs on order—that is, for a show, you can't sit around and wait for inspiration to hit you. However, "And Then My Heart Stood Still" originated in a hack in Paris, after they barely missed a smash-up.

Ziegfeld once shouted across the lobby of the Ziegfeld theater that he needed a torch song, quick, and they wrote it for him, then and there. The name of that hit was "Ten Cents a Dance." Oldtimers remember that one with a sigh.

Timely Editorial

Give Tires a Chance.

The man who left broken glass nails and other tire destroyers in the street was always a public nuisance but now he is a public enemy.

Tires have ceased to be a matter of private concern. They are now a part of the national defense. Carelessness which damages them is sabotage.

Most filling stations and many other places of business make it a practice to gather up broken glass or other sharp objects in their neighborhood. The public and especially the children will be contributing to the war effort if they remove any tire menaces which come to their attention.

For patriotism, if not for neighborly helpfulness, let's keep the streets and highways clean and give those poor, thin, irreplacable tires a chance for maximum usefulness.—Canton Repository.

A Farmer's Diary

A Loan to Uncle

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I DREAMED I was walking along a country road, when a tall old man, with striped trousers, a high hat and a white chin whisker, came up behind me and said, "You going my way?"

I looked at him and loved him. It was so evident that he came from sturdy stock, intelligent, self reliant—even noble. I recognized him from seeing his picture in the papers, and knew him for my kin, although I had never walked so close to him before. I stammered a little as I answered, "Yes—why yes, Uncle Sam, I'm going along with you!" and I asked, as an afterthought, "Just where are you going?"

He gave me a long keen look that sized me up. I knew he thought I was husky for my size and that he liked it that I was not afraid of hard work. His eyes twinkled as he told me, "There's a crazy man loose, over Europe way, and he's got to be put where he can't do any more harm. It's a very sad case—the poor fellow thinks he's God! I'm going over, with a bunch of the boys and a posse of the neighbors to get things in hand—but there's bound to be shooting before he'll say 'Uncle,' and I'll hate that!"

"Take me with you," I said.

"No-o, you're a mite too old. But there's lots to do here, to back up our boys—and I may need to borrow some money from you, too, to make guns and shells and pay workers and get food and clothes for the army."

"Why sure," I said, "take this—I can earn some more," and I pulled out my wallet, stuffed with bills, and gave it all to him. ('I'm dreaming,' I thought, 'my wallet was never that full!'—and immediately I awoke.)

WITH incomes, even on the farm, going up, every thoughtful man wants to put some money where it will be safe, where it will grow, where he can get it if he needs it, and where it will help win the war. Our government belongs to all of us. The United States Treasury is the strongest financial institution in the world.

War bonds pay 2.9 per cent, compound interest . . . a higher rate than our government pays big banks or financial institutions.

Why should your Uncle Sam pay you more for your money—and you just a common citizen? Well—he knows it is good for both him and you. If you buy a bond you have a "stake" in your government. You'll be more interested, more alert to keep informed how your government is being managed.

It is better to buy bonds with your extra money, than to waste it, as people are tempted to do, in boom times. Buying bonds will help steady the cost of living.

"Rainy days" may come, after the war, when this 'arsenal' will have to be transformed into the 'breadbasket' of the democracies. Look ahead. Think things through. Think big! Buy WAR BONDS and get ready to be a real "citizen of the whole world."

QUEEN AWARDS OFFICER CROSS

Wilhelmina Presents Ribbon To Dutch Seaman For Bravery.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—Pieter van Beelen, formerly chief officer of the Holland-America liner Pennland, was presented the Netherlands Cross of Merit for bravery and calmness under fire by Queen Wilhelmina during her recent visit to New York. Formal presentation of the orange and blue breast ribbon, in lieu of the actual medal, which is to be forwarded from London, was made in the offices of the Holland-America Line by T. Elink-Schuurman, consul general of the Netherlands in New York.

The Pennland, 16,500 gross tons, well known as a tourist class passenger ship in service to Belgium and Holland, was sunk by dive bombers during the Battle of Crete.

In describing the action, Mr. van Beelen told how the first bombs to hit the vessel smashed the anchor windlass, sending fragments in every direction, one of which struck Capt. Johann van Dulken, the master, and temporarily incapacitated him.

Three compasses were smashed and Mr. van Beelen had just time to make one workable instrument out of the scattered parts, and inspect the damage below decks, when a series of seven bombs hit the Pennland. One of them penetrated the deck, exploded in the engine room and killed four members of the crew. Under the supervision of Mr. van Beelen, the remainder of the ship's complement about 300 in all, was gotten away safely in lifeboats. Shortly after the Pennland sank.

Mr. van Beelen was born in Noordwijk, Holland, 44 years ago, and he has been in the service of the Holland-America Line since 1917. He was appointed chief officer of the Pennland in 1939. Previous to that he served as second officer for several years on the Rotterdam in cruise service.

British Corporal Kills Canary And Blames It On War

LONDON—(INS)—For those who claim that war makes men cruel, today came one case in supporting evidence.

Corporal Sam Henry of Belfast was in the midst of a heated argument with his family. Infuriated, so he said, by the words of his wife, he snatched the pet canary from its cage and threw it in the fire.

They fined him ten dollars for that in the local court. When reporters asked him what made him do such a thing, his answer:

"Dunno, guess it must be the war."

ARMY RECRUITS FILL OUT LIKE GROWING BOYS WHILE AT CAMP

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Conditions are so healthy in the American army that recruits fill out like a bunch of growing boys, gaining six to ten pounds within a few months, Major T. H. Mills said proudly today.

Major Mills attributed the weight gain to excellent food and plenty of exercise. His brow then wrinkled, however, and he admitted he didn't have such a ready explanation for one thing: after a short time in the army, the average John Soldier requires a half side larger shoe.

The press is permitted to speculate that perhaps the unusual amount of walking, that is to say, marching, flattens out the feet somewhat and makes the old shoe size inadequate, although really flat feet, of course, are taboo.

Major Mills, chief of the supply division of the sixth corps area quartermaster office, also revealed that southern youths, for unexplained reasons, have larger feet than northern recruits, and that Texans and Californians average two inches taller than men from other sections of the country.

The average young American entering the army, Major Mills said, shapes up like this: 5 feet, 8 inches tall, 144 pounds, 33¼-inch chest, 31-inch waist, 9½ D shoe and size 7 hat.

"But after just a few months in camp," he said, "the average soldier's weight has increased six to ten pounds. He needs shoes a half size larger, his chest measurement has expanded and sometimes he even grows taller."

The soldier's weekly rations includes four pounds and six ounces of fresh beef, almost a pound of chicken, a pound and three-quarters of fresh pork, nine pounds of fresh and canned vegetables, four pounds of fresh and evaporated milk, a pound of cereals and a pound of dry vegetables.

"The men's No. 1 favorite dessert is apple pie," Major Mills said. "Other favorites, in the order of popularity, are ice cream, doughnuts, chocolate cake, cherry pie, mince pie, fruit cobbler, banana pudding, butterscotch pudding and rice pudding."

The QMC spends $412 52 on a soldier his first year of service, and of this amount $190 or about 53 cents a day goes for food. Clothing accounts for $150.

EVENING SERVICE HELD AT LUTHERAN CHURCH

Saturday Ceremony Unites In Marriage Miss Lucille Baker, Mansfield Nurse, and Harold Snyder.

TWO seven-branch candelabra silhoutted against a banking of ferns, palms and large baskets of garden flowers formed the setting at the First Lutheran church for the candlelight service, Saturday evening, which united in marriage Miss Lucille L. Baker of this city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Baker, Loudonville, and Harold J. Snyder, of Cleveland, son of Mrs. Ada Snyder, Loudonville.

The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. J. H. Kuhlman, pastor of the Lutheran church at Loudonville, who was assisted by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer. A street length dressmaker suit of cadet blue, cranberry shade accessories and a corsage of Briarcliff roses, gardenias and delphinium completed the bride's wedding dress.

Her attendant, Miss Mary Elizabeth Gruber, was attired in a two-piece suit of raspberry shade with black accessories and a corsage of gardenias and delphinium. Raymond H. Baker, the bride's brother from Indianapolis, served as best man. Ushers were Carl Snyder and Wayne Snyder of Loudonville, brothers of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Baker appeared at her daughter's wedding attired in a black dress with white accessories and Mrs. Snyder wore a brown dress with turquoise blue accessories. Both mothers had gardenia corsages.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore an emerald green velvet two-piece suit with black accessories. Both Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are graduates of Loudonville high school and Mrs. Snyder is a graduate nurse of the Mansfield General hospital, now being employed as nurse at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Mr. Snyder is with the Thompson Products company in Cleveland.

Out-of-town guests for the affair included: Mrs. Harry Carl and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Carl, Ashland; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gretzinger, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Young, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Snyder, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker and Mrs. Allen Balliett, all of Loudonville.

Review Heard By Voters League At Afternoon Tea

Approximately 100 women of the Richland County League of Women Voters were present Saturday to attend the opening tea at the summer home of Miss Justine Sterkel, the Scholl farm on Lexington avenue road. The members inspected the home and grounds and enjoyed a lovely tea served out of doors.

Presiding was Mrs. O. D. Meese, president of the organization, who gave a brief outline of the objects of the national league. She stated that they were pursuing four fronts of activity, namely: "distribution and use of 'broadsides'," meaning the publicity used on federal issues pertaining to the war effort.

Second point was: "work on the grass roots," or the careful consideration of problems of local government; third, "effort to elect better congressmen," stressing the importance of primary voting; and lastly, "support of federal measurers pertaining to successful issues of the war."

Miss Bertha Gregory, first vice president of the league, then gave a talk on "War Time Service." Main part of the program was devoted to the interesting review by Mrs. William M. Layton of Raoul de Roussy de Sales' book, "The Making of Tomorrow," which is in line with the policy of the national association's idea for the post-war problem of peace.

An important meeting on Oct. 5, 7:30 p. m., in the Chamber of Commerce rooms, will be held by the league at which time introduction will be made of all the local, state representatives and district congressional candidates.

Herbs Discussed By Garden Club

The Linnaeus Garden club was entertained by Mrs. C. K. Smaltz at her home on West Fourth street recently. Fourteen members were seated at two tables for the dessert luncheon. Mrs. William Fisher gave a talk on the herb, borage, and Mrs. Herman Clingan read a paper on the "Uses of Fragrant Herbs from 200 A. D. to the Present Time."

Plans were made to attend the annual meeting of the Garden Clubs of Ohio in Cleveland, Sept. 23. Hostess on Sept. 25 will be Mrs. R. Fred Dippman, Park avenue west road.

HONOR SOLDIER.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bletz, Park avenue west road, entertained with a dinner Friday evening in honor of Corp. John Morphew of Pine Camp, N. Y. Other out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Westfall, Mr. and Mrs. Vinton Leech, David Albright and Miss Marilyn McDonald, all of Wooster.

Breakfast Given For Carolyn Wolf

Miss Carolyn Wolf, bride-elect of Lieut. Gordon Jelliff, was honored Sunday morning with a breakfast given at Westbrook Country club by the Misses Katherine and Martha Hartman. Seventeen guests presented the honoree with a shower of personal gifts.

Appointments were carried out in purple and green with bowls of grapes on the table and bouquets of gladioli in the windows. This was the second in a series of pre-nuptial parties for Miss Wolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Wolf. Lieut. Jelliff, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jelliff, 125 Carpenter road, is in the quartermaster corps at Camp Lee, Va. The wedding will take place on Oct. 3.

Tree Expert Will Give Talk Friday For Garden Club

Mansfield Garden club members will hear Mr. Rice of the Davey Tree Expert company following their luncheon on Friday, Sept. 18, at Westbrook Country club. Hostesses for the occasion will be Mrs. George Mead, Mrs. Fred Wolf, Mrs. George Draffan and Mrs. William Weldon. Subject of Mr. Rice's talk will be "The Story of Shade Tree Care."

When Mrs. Gerald Moore and Mrs. S. C. Schiller entertained the club last Friday at the home of the former, slides and pictures of members' gardens were shown. Among those whose flowers were viewed were Mrs. William Bowers, Mrs. J. A. Rigby, Mrs. Paul Bovard, Mrs. Louis Bromfield, Miss Lillian Dickson and a guest, Mrs. Cloyd Hines.

Lovely flower arrangements were featured by the hostesses. In a mirrored vase were pink asters and blue salvia and a long, flat arrangement consisted of shaggy pink asters and silver lace vine.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, September 15.

Under astral influences bearing on the affairs of this day the most cherished aspirations and ambitions should be crowned with success. It is a time for working the combined forces, resources and associations to reach such high goals. These may embrace financial increase, expanded credits, honors and preferment from superiors, and probably the public or community contribute to enhance this estate of high praise.

Those whose birthday it is should have a year of conspicuous and gratifying success under the most propitious and pleasant of auspices. Friends and superiors and those in high standing may unite to promote the financial status, expand the credits, and enhance personal prestige. There may be signs of public recognition or esteem as well as private benefits, probably in gifts.

A child born on this day should be abundantly gifted with a high order of talents and efficiency which should attract the powerful and appreciative in both public and private station.

Party Given For Young Daughter

Ilers Celebrate Three Events

Little friends of James Iler were entertained at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Iler, 603 Arlington avenue, Saturday afternoon in honor of his sixth birthday. Standing in the front row are: Alice Ann Barkley, Suzanne Simons, James Iler, Joy Ann Haley, George Rex and Arthur Westervelt. The back row includes: Michael Carrigan, Patricia Jandro, John Herringhaus and Charles Ticknor. Saturday also marked the 13th wedding anniversary of the Iler's and Mr. Iler's birthday.

MANSFIELD COUPLE WEDS IN ILLINOIS

Miss Helen Louise Bowden Travels to Rockford, Near Camp Grant, to Become Bride of Corp. Robert Harbaugh.

WHITE gladioli decorated the altar when Miss Helen Louise Bowden became the bride of Corp. Robert Harbaugh in the State Street Baptist church at Rockford, Ill., on Aug. 29. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bowden, R. D. 5; he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harbaugh, R. D. 5. Rev. W. C. Rutherford officiated for the ceremony.

Attendants for the couple were Corp. and Mrs. Oscar Holtz of Fond du Lac, Wis. The bride's two-piece black velveteen ensemble was trimmed with white lace. Her accessories were black and white and she wore a single strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom. Gardenias formed the bridal corsage. Mrs. Holtz was attired in a soldier blue dress with matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

Also present for the wedding were the bride's parents and her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McFarland. After a week's stay in Rockford, Mrs. Harbaugh has returned to Mansfield and will reside here temporarily.

The bride was graduated from Madison high school and the bridegroom is an alumnus of Mansfield Senior high school. Both Corp. and Mrs. Harbaugh are graduates of the Mansfield Commercial Institute. She is employed in the office of Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company. Corp. Harbaugh is in the army medical corps and stationed at Camp Grant, Ill.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

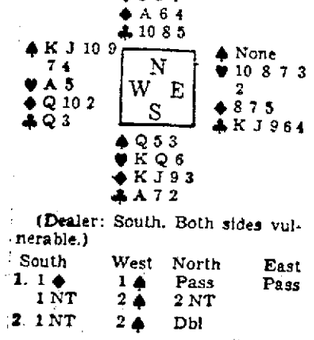
By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOVE'S LABOR LOST

In a game among a number of teams of four, there are two ways of scoring. One of them is to add up all of the scores made by one pair of a team playing the North-South hands of each deal, and those of its opponents, also add up all of the scores by the pair playing the East-West hands, and those of its opponents, and then subtract the total points of your two pairs from those by your opponents, to see how many net points you have, which may be either plus or minus.

The other is "match-point" scoring. By this, if the score of your North-South pair on a deal, combined with that of your East-West pair on it, produces a plus result, you get one match point for winning the deal; if the contrary, you lose it and get no points, and if tied, you get a half of a point.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. 1 ♦	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
1 NT	2 ♠	2 NT
2. 1 NT	2 ♠	Dbl

Without any brief in behalf of good bidding at either table, there is the way is actually went in a team game where the East-West pair of one team was at Table 2, and its North-South mates were at Table 1.

Both pairs got a fine result, and consequently the deal was won emphatically. At the first table, South was set one at his bid of 2-No Trumps, whereas in most cases South played at 3-No Trumps, was double and set two tricks. Thus the loss of 100 points for down one not doubled was a 400 point gain as against those who lost 500 for down two doubled.

At Table 1, West was fortunate enough to make his 2-Spades doubled, for a score of 120 for tricks, 500 bonus for game, total 620. That was 120 better than the score by the pairs who beat the doubled 3-No Trumps 500.

So the team beat most of the field 120 at one table and 400 at the other. That was not good luck, however, as it wasted two good results to gain one match point. If the team had made one of the two pairs' fine scores on one hand, while the mates were making an average, and the other pairs' fine score on another hand, while its mates made an average, two match points could have been scored by the same amount of fine work. It is better to have two bad scores together, but your fine scores opposite ordinary ones.

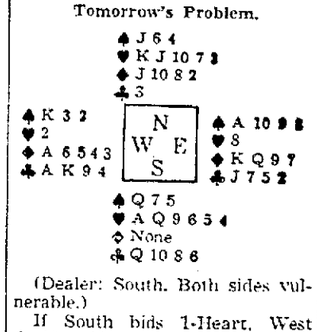
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Heart, West doubles, North 2-Hearts, East 2-Spades, South 3-Hearts, West 3-Spades, North 4-Hearts and East doubles, what is the correct defense?

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"LILLIAN," I echoed, then I saw what he meant. But he was already explaining, and I knew it was my cue to listen.

"You know why I sent Lillian to the farm and brought Katharine here," he said. "It was because I could not trust Lillian to see clearly where Marion is concerned. Her emotions are so ravaged, her fear for her daughter's safety is so obsessing.

"I brought her back home in order that she might talk to Carolyn and get her confidence. There is still a chance that she may have done that.

"But," he went on slowly, "there is the other chance—that Carolyn may be able to induce Lillian to let her escape our vigilance, to get in contact with some mysterious person who she says can save Marion.

Mission for Madge

"If Carolyn can do that, Lillian will do everything in her power to help the girl get away, and Miss Whitlock may not be able to cope with her. But you can manage Lillian, if anyone can. That is why I want you and Richard to go now to the Underwood home, and stay there until I can come over and see what Carolyn is doing."

"I don't know what you and Madge think about it," Dicky struck in, "but it's my private opinion that things have been made far too easy for little Carolyn. She ought to be hauled up before a tribunal and given a good stiff third degree."

"I agree with you," I said suddenly, for the vision of Lillian being cajoled by Carolyn into some action which might in fact bring harm to Marion, filled me with a cold, deadly fury.

"That makes it unanimous," my father said. "And now I'll go back to the other suite. If possible, telephone me after you get to the Underwoods, and find out if all's well—or isn't. Use our special code, Richard."

"I'll do that, sir," Dicky answered, then turned to me with a grin which I knew was intended as a tonic for my frayed nerves.

"'Put on your old gray bonnet'," he chanted, "pack whatever you need, and we'll be on our way."

"I don't need to pack anything," I told him, putting on my hat. "My bags are there, just as I brought them in."

"Then, let's go," he said. He picked up the small bags and hurried me to the elevator. When we reached the outer door he waited for a taxicab whose driver I knew was linked with my father's organization.

"It really doesn't matter whether we're followed," Dicky said, when we were in the cab. "But I'd like to be sure we get to the Underwoods intact instead of in pieces," he added, in a futile effort to relieve by idle chatter my mounting anxiety over what Carolyn might have done since we left her.

Signals Underwood

By mute and mutual consent we gave up all attempts at pursiflage, and sat silent until the taxi drew up in front of the Underwood home.

"Stay here!" Dicky directed the driver briefly. "If you hear a yell, do what this man tells you," as he gestured to the guard standing in front of the steps. Then he rushed me down the walk at the side of the house, to a spot just beneath the window of Harry's room.

"Let's hope he's here," he whispered, as he picked up a stick and struck the drain pipe three staccato blows.

WANTS DOUBLED OUTPUT OF ARMS

Roosevelt, in 6th Lend-Lease Report, Says We're Only at Half Speed.

the development of other means of transportation will relieve this situation."

The president said in his letter that deliveries of lend-lease goods, "which have been growing, will have to grow much larger still."

"We and the other United Nations need all the weapons that all of us can produce and all the men that all of us can muster," he added.

Compared with their available resources, he said, Britain and Russia had produced more weapons than the United States.

"And they are continuing to produce to the limit," he asserted, "in spite of the fact that Russia is a battlefield and Britain an offensive base."

The chief executive asserted that as American men moved overseas to battle "they must and will have sufficient quantities of the best equipment the United States can produce" At the same time "we must provide more weapons to the armies of our allies already in the fighting lines," he added.

"Britain has been fighting the Nazis for three years, China is in her sixth year of war, and in Russia the war's greatest land front is more than a year old," he declared. "From the beginning they have carried on without enough guns or planes. It is through their uphill fight that the war has not been lost.

"Only by strengthening our allies and combining their strength with ours can we surely win."

The report said lend-lease funds were now being spent for many special projects, including further tests of the "seamobile," shallow draft cargo vessel originally known as the "sea otter," and for saving shipping space and refrigeration capacity by the development of dehydrated foodstuffs.

To show that lend-lease is not entirely a one-way proposition, the report said that in Great Britain 250,000 British workmen were engaged in construction for the American army in July alone.

In addition, British guns and camps, aircraft and military stores have been turned over to United States expeditionary forces and reciprocal aid is being furnished American troops in Australia, New Zealand and by the "Fighting French" in equatorial Africa and New Caledonia.

Of the $6,489,000,000 aid furnished by the United States thus far. $5,129,000,000 represented goods transferred and services rendered, while $1,360,000,000 was the value of goods "in process."

During August, military items comprised about 58 per cent of total transfers, industrial materials 29 per cent, and foodstuffs 13 per cent.

Not Enough Yet, Nelson Warns

CAMDEN, N. J. —(AP)—Donald M. Nelson, war production board chairman, says that although this nation's war production has been stepped up 350 per cent since Pearl Harbor it is not yet "good enough."

"We have not won this war," he said. "We are not even winning it—yet. In this game there is no second prize. We are playing it for keeps."

Nelson spoke last night over the NBC network as a guest of the labor-management committee of RCA-Victor here in an address directed at 3,500,000 workers enrolled in labor-management committees in 1,500 plants.

PARENTS PICKET

Protest Closing of School In Toledo as Economy Move.

TOLEDO—(AP)—Webster school, ordered closed by the board of education as an economy measure, was without students as Toledo's public schools resumed today, but a host of parents were on hand—formed in a picket line to protest the closing of the 36-room structure.

The parents carried placards demanding that the school be reopened and some said they would refuse to send their children to other schools.

Board of education officials said the school, which accommodated 1,100 pupils a decade ago, would have had only 196 enrolled this term.

THEATERS

Star-Spangled Film.

There's plenty of flag-waving in "Yankee Doodle Dandy", the star-spangled production now showing at the Ohio, for George M. Cohan, the great American showman on whose career the story is based, was a flag-waver all his life. Cohan never fired a gun but he received the Congressional Medal of Honor from President Roosevelt in recognition of having written "Over There" and "You're a Grand Old Flag." The picture that tells the story of show business as well as that of Cohan's life presents James Cagney in the leading role. Walter Huston and Irene Manning are in the supporting cast.

Dramatic Film.

The caustic and unremitting wit of a crusty old Englishman cuts a path through the ranks of the gestapo in the Madison drama, "The Pied Piper," starring Monty Woolley. A greater role than that offered him in "The Man Who Came to Dinner," Woolley's Englishman shepherds a flock of children from Nazi-perilled France across the channel to England. Thrilling encounters with the gestapo and escape ahead of the guns furnish excitement. Roddy McDowall is in the cast. A riotous football story, "It Happened in Flatbush," with Lloyd Nolan is the second attraction.

Gangster Story.

Story of a gangster afraid of going up the river the next time for keeps, Humphrey Bogart's starring picture, "The Big Shot," shows what happened to one lawbreaker when he decides to pull a last big job. Irene Manning, Richard Travis and Chick Chandler are in the cast. Rita Hayworth and Victor Mature are teamed in "My Gal Sal," Technicolor musical, shares the bill at the Ritz. John Sutton, Walter Catlett and Mona Maris are in the cast.

Western Thriller.

Susceptible ranchers, scheming speculators and a cowboy adept at exposing chicanery people "Stardust on the Sage," Gene Autry's starring vehicle at the Park. Louise Currie appears opposite Autry and the players include Edith Fellows, Smiley Burnett and Bill Henry. Martin Mooney, ace crime-reporter, wrote the story of "Men of San Quentin," the second feature, drama of actual prison life.

KLINE FAMILY GATHERING CLOSES REUNION SEASON AT HEISE PARK

GALION—Bringing the picnic and reunion season to a close at Heise park Sunday, members of the Kline family gathered there for their 20th annual reunion. Twenty-eight members from Toledo, Bloomville, Chatfield, Republic, Waldo, Bucyrus and Galion were present.

During the business meeting Arthur Brown of Galion was elected president; Roland Ireland, Galion, vice-president, and Mrs. Pearl Fauser of Chatfield, secretary-treasurer. The date of the 1943 reunion has not yet been decided.

* * *

The Supper club, a gathering of Galion neighbors, met Sunday noon at Heise park for a picnic. It was the 15th gathering of the group, many of whom now live in other communities.

DATES SET FOR TWO WEDDINGS

Marriages of Crawford County Young Women To Be Held Oct. 10, 18.

BUCYRUS — Alice Schreck, daughter of Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Ralph Schreck, has revealed plans for her marriage Oct. 18 to Franklin J. Heeder, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Heeder, Rochester, N. Y.

The nuptials will be solemnized in an open church service in First Presbyterian church here at 4 o'clock.

The bride-elect is employed as secretary to the machinery and equipment engineer at the Curtiss-Wright plant in Columbus. Mr. Heeder is associated with the General Bronze corporation of Long Island, N. Y.

Both attended school in Columbus, Miss Schreck the office training school and her fiance Ohio State university.

* * *

Oct. 10 has been announced as the date of the approaching marriage of Miss Hope Schafstall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schaffstall of New Washington and Warren D. Fike, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Fike, also of New Washington.

CHURCH PLANS SERVICE SERIES

GREENWICH — A number of special services have been planned by the Shenandoah Christian church leading up to the observance of Rally day, Oct. 4, Rev. Turner Holt, pastor of the church, announced today.

Included in the series will be a Brotherhood supper, Sept. 24, at which Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, Mansfield, will be the principal speaker, and Missionary day, Sept. 27, when the speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hahn who recently returned to the United States after spending seven years in India.

400 APPLY

SHELBY — Nearly 400 persons have applied for operator's license at Mayor W. R. Morris's office here for the new year, it was disclosed today.

About 5,000 licenses are annually sold through the office. The sale ends Sept. 30.

CONDITION GRAVE

CRESTLINE — Found unconscious in his room at the home of his nephew, Paul Fisher, 318 North Pearl street, yesterday morning, Thomas Fisher today was reported still in critical condition.

Physicians said he had suffered a stroke.

DRIVER FINED

GALION—Harold Smith, Route 2, Galion, was fined $100 and costs in Mayor William Amann's court Saturday on charges of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

HEADS DEM COMMITTEE

GALION — George Mason of Galion was elected secretary of the Democratic executive committee of Crawford county, when they held their committee elections Friday in Bucyrus.

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

"Tell us, Carl, what Nap Lajoie said the day you struck him out in the tournament at Crestline," urged Jeff Holmquist.

"You can tell it better than I can," retorted long Carl Maul. "He's supposed to have said it to you, but I never believed he did."

"Oh yes he did," declared Jeff, "Nap said he hadn't seen as good a curve ball in the American league all season."

"Oh, well," grinned Maul, "the Old Master did have a pretty good curve.

"And now," said Carl, "you can tell us Jeff, about the time you were advertised to tangle with Babe Ruth in Baltimore."

"It was a great game," Holmquist reminisced, "for eight innings—and then the balloon went up.

"I had gotten a great start in the International league with Newark, winning my first game 1-0 and getting two hits in four trips, and losing my second game 1-0.

"And a kid named Babe Ruth was going great guns as a southpaw pitcher for Baltimore at the time.

* * *

"So when we went into Baltimore, they advertised a pitching duel between the two sensations, Babe Ruth and Jeff Holmquist.

"Yes, it was a great game—for eight innings.

"And then Baltimore got four runs with two out in the eighth, and we had three pitchers in and out of there, and I was the first to go out, and it all happened so fast I am still bewildered after all these years.

"That Babe Ruth was one of the greatest pitchers ever to toe a rubber, with that great left handed curve ball of his."

"Yes," confided one of the fans, "but Jeff still has clippings telling about the time he beat Ruth in the last game of the season to give Newark the league championship by half a game over Baltimore."

* * *

The talk swung around to baseball's greatest players, and one and all agreed that Ty Cobb was the greatest of them all, and it was immediately recalled that Carl Maul fanned the great Cobb too, in a tournament at Shelby.

"We'd have won that game too," Maul told Holmquist, "if you had stayed in your position at first base."

"We thought we would catch a guy napping off first base, and I ran to cover the bag," Holmquist explained.

"But you didn't tell me, and I put one down through there and Cobb hit a lazy bounder down first base way that you could have fielded easily. But you weren't there," Maul retorted

"We fooled that Cobb though," Maul chuckled. "He thought he could score from second on a bounder to the pitcher's box, and rounded third as I bluffed a throw to first. And I caught him flat-footed."

* * *

That's the kind of conversation that went on all day yesterday at Spiker's grove as the Old Timers association held their annual picnic.

And the Old Timers who attended had a great time recalling their playing days.

It's too bad more of the Old Timers weren't on hand to join in the fun.

Baldinger Wins Rifle Club Shoot

J. Baldinger was high in the 30-yard off-hand shoot of the Mansfield Muzzle Loader Rifle club Saturday with four firsts, and 71-2 per cent. E. Wagner was second with 46.6, and J. Adams third with 33.2.

S. Bushman took the 80-yard string measure match with a string of 2.73 inches for three shots. A. Owen was second with 2.93, and Baldinger third with 3.05.

Owen won the 50-yard rest shoot with a string of 2.07 for three shots. Cy Hassinger was second with 2.14, and Baldinger third with 2.26.

E. Light took the group shoot with a string of 1.25. Hassinger was second with 1.45, and T. Nelson third with 1.50.

FIGHT BOOKED

AKRON—(INS)—Lee Savold and Pat Comiskey will be heavyweight headliners on the Sept. 22 fight card, Promoter Tom Stanley announced today.

Yankees Prepare Clincher

Can Win Pennant In Game at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—This is the day the New York Yankees expect to do it again—that is, clinch another pennant.

After sweeping both ends of a double header, 9 to 1 and 4 to 1, the champions have a chance today to wrap up their 13th American league title and their sixth in seven years in the third game of the series with the Cleveland Indians.

And not even the most optimistic Cleveland fan was very hopeful that the Indians could put off the Yanks' 1942 pennant claims another day, although the Tribe is the only club which thrice has beaten Ernie Bonham—19-game winner who will start for New York.

Against him, Manager Lou Boudreau will use Al Smith—only pitcher to beat the Yanks three times this year

Yesterday's double defeat left the Indians only a half-game in front of the fifth-place Detroit Tigers. Red Ruffing gave up seven hits in the opener and Hank Borowy nine in the nightcap, while the champs clubbed Rookie Ray Poat and Milnar for 14 in the first and Chubby Dean yielded 10 in the second game.

Lacking support in his initial appearance in the Tribe's home town, Poat let in four runs in the third. New York got four more off Milnar in the fourth, then added another in the fifth to wind up its first-game scoring.

* * *

The Yanks sewed up the nightcap with three runs in the third, Borowy driving in two of them. Their final tally was an unearned run in the eighth on Ken Keltner's wild throw.

New Papa Sets Record For Errors

BOSTON—(UP)—The birth of a 7¾ pound son early Sunday morning to Mrs Len Merullo had a disastrous effect on the fielding of the Chicago Cubs shortstop.

* * *

Merullo gained the dubious distinction of setting a new record for errors for a major league shortstop in a single inning when he was charged with four misplays in the second frame of the nightcap between the Braves and Cubs yesterday.

* * *

Four other short fielders have made three errors in a round. They were Gordon Slade of the Reds in 1934, Bill Dahlen of the Dodgers in 1902, and Martin Marion of the Cards and Al Brancato of the Athletics in 1940.

Mother and baby are reported doing well.

WINS SHOE TITLE

NEWPORT, Ky. —(AP)— Arner Lindquist of Morgantown, W. Va., won the national senior AAU horseshoe pitching contest with a ringer average of 66.5 per cent and then teamed with Stanley Manker of Chillicothe, Ohio champion, to place second in doubles, won by defending titlists John Lindmeier and Dorne Woodhouse of Chicago. Manker finished in a four-way tie for fourth in the singles.

DUROCHER, DRESSEN FINED FOR RUN-IN

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—President Ford C. Frick of the National league announced today he has fined Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers $100 and Coach Charley Dressen, $50, and suspended Dressen for five days for their run-in with Umpire Al Barlick in Saturday's game with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Frick said Durocher was fined for prolonged argument and Dressen for rushing Barlick menancingly.

Bucks To Use Fancy Stuff

Lack Weight To Play Rough, Tough Football.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— A bit of "fancy stuff," accompanied by plenty of speed, will feature Ohio State university's grid attack this fall, Head Coach Paul E. Brown indicated today.

Brown, in disclosing his starting lineup, declared:

* * *

"Only three of last year's starters are back, and in the eight spots to be filled we have lost weight, but have picked up speed. We'll have a light, fast team—and one that's able to think.

* * *

"We won't have the weight to play a rough, tough, bruising type of game, so we'll have to rely on speed and finesse. You'll see plenty of 'fancy' stuff in our attack."

Absence of a punter constitutes Brown's biggest worry. He had counted on Gene Fekete, the sensational sophomore fullback from Findlay, to do the kicking, but the husky fellow has displayed a bit of slowness in getting the boots away.

As a result the Buck mentor has turned the punting chore over to his left ends, starter Dante Lavelli, the Hudson sophomore, and Tom Cleary, sophomore from Cleveland. Cleary started as a fullback on the third team, jumped to a second team halfback, and was converted to an end last week He is the best kicker on the squad.

The Bucks, averaging 194 in the line and 184 in the ball-toting department, were to continue their two-a-day practice sessions this week. They'll drop down to single workouts next week as they taper off for the opener against Fort Knox Sept. 26.

* * *

The collegiate season gets under way this week-end with six games, launching the abbreviated 175-game campaign. Last year the state's colleges played 209 contests.

Western Reserve invades Akron for a game with the Zippers Friday night to launch the season, while Saturday brings up tilts between Xavier and Butler at Indianapolis, Wright-Patterson Fields vs. Muskingum at New Concord, South Dakota State vs. Youngstown at Youngstown, Findlay vs. U. of Dayton at Dayton, and Rio Grande vs. U. of Louisville at Louisville.

The Buck colleges play 35 night games this year as compared with 42 a year ago; play 43 Ohio conference tilts instead of 50, play only 70 games with out-of-state foes instead of 117 as in 1941; stage 29 invasions of foreign fields instead of 61, and play host to only 41 out-of-state squads instead of 56.

Travelers Lose At Loudonville

Mansfield Travelers dropped an 8-3 decision to the Loudonville Clippers at Loudonville yesterday, but the Mansfielders had their share of fun.

* * *

Pat Patterson clouted a home run in the first inning, and Kenny Lockhart also hit one far out of the park only to see the ball hit a tree and bounce back in the playing field for a triple.

* * *

C. Paullins got a home for the Clippers.

CATCHER ORDERED BACK TO PHILLIES

PHILADELPHIA—(U.P.)—Catcher Ben Warren, recently claimed on waivers by the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been ordered returned to the Phils by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, it was announced today.

Landis ruled in a telegram to President Gerry Nugent that it was not proper for a player of major league calibre to be traded or sold by a club which still had games to play with teams that were contenders for the pennant.

This Is Still Good Pose If You Can Do It

It's a new football year but here is an old football pose as staged by the Loyola university, Los Angeles, Lions. The players are Vince Pacewic, passing; Carl Sweeters, tackling, and Fred Beyrouty, blocking. The Lions are coached by Bernie Bradley this year.

Purdue Looks For New Deal

Coaches Fight Defeatist Attitude Along Wabash.

By LEO FISCHER

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(INS)—If revived fighting spirit, morale, confidence in the coaches and an atmosphere of friendly cooperation can weld together a winning football team, they're going to have one this fall at Purdue.

* * *

There's a new deal along the banks of the Wabash—and it's a good one. A new athletic director, a new coach and a new viewpoint make a combination that's reminiscent of the golden days of Purdue during the Jimmy Phelan-Noble Kizer regime.

The new athletic director is Guy "Red" Mackey. The new coach is Elmer Burnham, who succeeds Mal Elward after seven years as head freshman coach. These two have stepped right in to eliminate the defeatist attitude toward football that crept into the Purdue camp the past few years.

With Burnham revising the Purdue attack through the discard of the traditional Notre Dame system in favor of the short punt formation, the backfield situation is particularly bright. Eight major letter men and some fine sophomores are available for ball-toting purposes.

John Andreditch, who in prep days was known as a touchdown specialist, stands out as one of the top fullback candidates.

Right behind him is Ed Cycenas, a junior from Tilden Tech in Chicago, who won a minor letter last year and has shown vast improvement in spring and fall drills.

* * *

Kenneth Smock and Bob Chester, who showed great promise as sophomores last year, are expected to be markedly more effective this year in the halfback posts. Also available are veteran Bill Buffington, handicapped by injuries last year, and a group of sophomores.

Two veteran signal callers are available to handle the quarterback job—Bob Hajzyk and Vince Snyder.

Coach Burnham has shifted Fred Smerke and Charles Harris from quarterback to the ends where they are expected to bolster three holdover veterans, Bill Shimer, Lavern King and Forrest McCaffry.

Bill Powers, one-time prep star from Chicago, leads the guard contingent. Another Chicago youngster, 200-pound Dick Barwegan, may take over the starting berth on the other side.

* * *

Barry French, Bruce Warren and Ewell O'Bryan give Purdue a trio of experienced and potent tackles.

Best choice of the moment for center is Alex Luego, letterman from two years ago.

Altogether, it's a fine-looking squad with great possibilities in spite of a tough schedule. It should finish well up in the race.

Ferrell Suspended For Leaving Field

NEWPORT NEWS, Va.—(UP)—Wes Ferrell, the highly vocal former American league pitcher, headed toward his Carolina home and possible banishment from baseball today.

* * *

Ferrell, now managing Lynchburg of the Virginia league, brought his club here yesterday for the playoffs but when Umpire Winston Milam banished his shortstop in the first inning the ex-major leaguer ordered his club off the field and started back home.

* * *

C. R. Williams, league president, fined Ferrell $200 and suspended him indefinitely. Williams said that Ferrell would not play any more this season and that he would leave it up to W. G. Bramham, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball leagues, to determine when Ferrell again might return to organized baseball.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

NEW YORK—It was bound to come—what with all these tales of coach-shortages that have appeared since football began making the headlines, and Hal Sayles of the Abilene (Tex.) Reporter-News brings the first report of a college player-coach...The guy is Arthur Wylie, a 235-pound tackle at McMurry college, who was drafted by head-man Jim Conger when no line coach could be located...Wylie will play his usual 50 or 60 minutes on game days and coach the rest of the week...If Art pulls a boner, Sayles suggests there's only one thing for him to do—go to the sidelines, beckon to a sub and say: "Go in there at tackle for that thick-headed Wylie."

Pros Get Full Of Kimbrough

Jarrin' John Jolts Packers, But Army Loses.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN.

NEW YORK—(AP)—It's still a question whether the Army All Star football teams, with three decisions in five games against National Pro League clubs, will be able to hold that edge in the remaining three contests but it is a dead sure cinch the Pros will have had their fill of John Kimsbrough.

Virtually out of the sport for two years except for a few games last season, the Texas A. & M. graduate of 1940 is the September sensation as a member of Maj. Wallace Wade's Western Army All Stars.

Against the Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee yesterday he ran back a kick for 95 yards and a touchdown as his mates went down in defeat, 36 to 21.

* * *

It was the second time he went that distance in the four games his soldier mates have played and the third time he reached pay dirt for more than 50 yards out.

In yesterday's defeat he also plunged for another six-pointer and set up a third with his pulverizing.

The loss made the Army's record against the Pros three wins and two defeats, including the 16 to 0 triumph piled up by Col. Robert Neyland's Eastern forces against the New York Giants Saturday.

The Neyland machine takes on the Brooklyn Dodgers at Baltimore Wednesday night before tackling the big bad Bears from Chicago in another charity contest at Boston Sunday. The Westerners' final contest is with the Giants at Syracuse, N. Y., Saturday night.

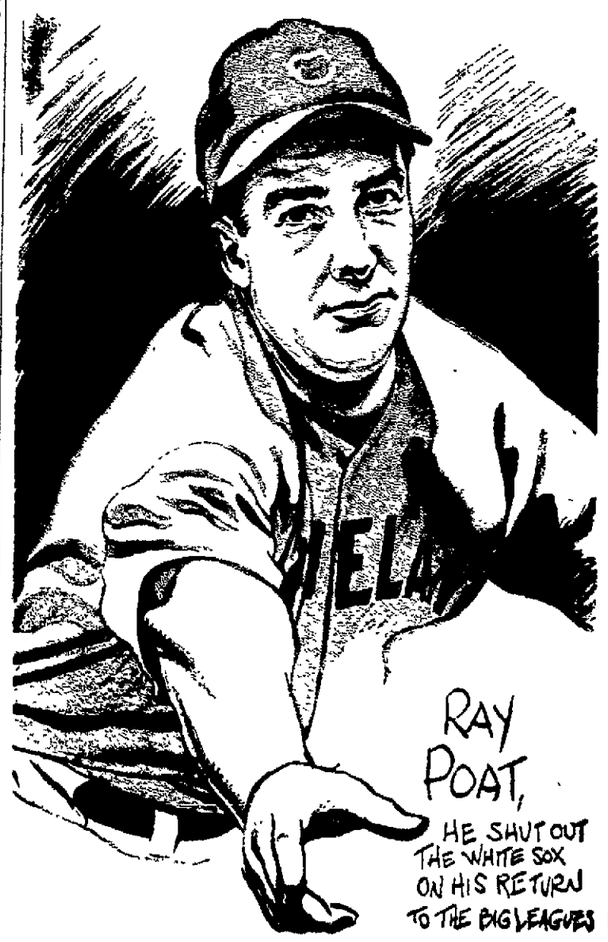
While the Khaki Kickers monopolized the spotlight, four pro elevens opened the league season with the Chicago Cards downing the Cleveland Rams at Buffalo, 7 to 0, and the Philadelphia Eagles besting the Pittsburgh Steelers, 24 to 14.

* * *

In a game that didn't count in the standings, the Bears roughed up the Washington Redskins in the Capital city, 38 to 14.

Proves Potent ---By Jack Sords



Flatbush Observes Gloomiest Sabbath

Dodgers Drop Two To Reds While Cards Take First Place In Race

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK—(INS)—The borough of Brooklyn today is a borough of broken hearts and desperate, dying hope.

Gamely trying to dismiss the memory of the gloomiest Sunday they can remember in many, many months, the long, legion of faithful fans who watched the slumping Dodgers drop both ends of a double-header to the Cincinnati Reds, 6-3 and 4-1 yesterday, predicted that the two days rest their heroes will now enjoy is just the tonic they need to put them in shape for their impending cat and dog fight with the St. Louis Cardinals for the National league pennant.

Brooklyn is off today and tomorrow, while the Cards, who yesterday split with the Phillies, 2 to 1 and 3 to 2, to take the league lead for the first time since April 20, play two more games with the cellar club of the circuit.

Ordinarily this would seem a terrible thing but, in the case of the Durocher darlings, most of their backers believe it's just what the doctor ordered. Brooklyn, which yesterday succeeded in losing its fourth and fifth straight games, is in a terrific nervous slump and is a badly rattled batting team.

They have made exactly 5 runs and 19 hits in their last four games with the Cards and the Reds. Anyone who thinks this is pennant winning ball, or an alibi for losing the flag has about as much of an argument as a Commando on the main street of Berlin.

* * *

The team is not that bad and no one, from Manager Leo Durocher down to their most severe critic, thinks it is. Though the Cards are coming and the Dodgers seem to be on the way out, the season still has 12 games to go, favors the 1941 champions and veteran baseball men don't think the race is by any means over.

In their first game yesterday the Dodgers found Bucky Walters far too much for them. Bucky not only held them to six hits but also managed to bat in three of his team's runs, one in the second, on Reese's error and two more in the fourth, when he doubled with the bases loaded to provide the margin of victory. Bobo Newsom was knocked from the mound by Walters' fourth inning blow and charged with the loss.

In the nightcap Lew Riggs, who used to play for the Reds, equalled a National league record for third basemen, established in 1904 by Phil Geier of the Braves, by making three errors in a single inning to let the Reds tally twice in the fifth, enough to give them clean sweep of the bill. They added additional markers in the sixth and eighth frames to give Ray Starr his 15th win of the season.

Meanwhile, over in the city of brotherly love, affection and baseball despair, the lowly Phils tried to give the Bums a helping hand by knocking off the Cardinals in the opening game of a twin bill before 20,798 fans, one of the miracle crowds of the year.

The Cards, leading 1-0, with two out in the ninth, lost the opener in schoolboy fashion when Jim Brown dropped Litwhiler's fly for a double; W. Cooper dropped Terry Moore's perfect relay of a single by Burich; Marion bobbled Murtaugh's grounder and Tom Livingston singled. They gained an even split and the league lead they've been chasing so long in the finale.

Both teams grabbled a couple of runs in the fourth inning but, in the fifth, Capt. Terry Moore poled his sixth homer of the season into the upper left field stands to give the Cards a 3-2 lead. Thanks to the excellent relief hurling of Bill Beckman, a former Athletic cast-off, the Phils couldn't do anything about that one run lead for the rest of the contest.

Bob Carpenter threw his second straight shutout to lead the Giants to a 5-0 victory over the Pirates and, despite some tough sailing, the New Yorkers managed to take the second game also, 5-3, from Pittsburgh at the Polo Grounds. In other National league games the Braves and the Cubs split, Boston taking the first game, 11 to 6 and Chicago the nightcap, 12 to 8, on a five run rally in the eighth inning.

Over in the American loop, the Yankees came within a single game of clinching the pennant by taking both ends of a twin bill from the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 1 and 4 to 1. Red Ruffing won his 14th victory in the opener and Hank Borowy his 15th in the closer.

* * *

Among the runners-up the Boston Red Sox had little trouble taking both ends of their doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 6-1 and 5-0; the Washington Senators won the first from Detroit, 5-2, and dropped their second game, 80 while the St. Louis Browns teed off on the poor, futile Philadelphia Athletics, 7-0 and 3-2 in the other pair of contests of a long and dreary Sabath afternoon.

Says M'Phail Can't Take It

Deacon Bill Hits Back on Dodger Charges.

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK—(AP)—Deacon Bill McKechnie, the bespectacled and usually benign manager of the Cincinnati Reds, exploded angrily when informed what the Dodger President Larry MacPhail had said about him.

It was a downright shame that this information had to be relayed to McKecknie just after his Reds had beaten the Dodgers twice, knocking them out of the National league lead.

But the mills of journalism grind relentlessly, so a reporter said to McKechnie, "boy, oh boy! Did MacPhail just put the blast on you in the clubroom. He said you are playing favorites, doing everything you can to beat the Dodgers so that the Cardinals will win the pennant. He said you deliberately pitched Johnny Vander Meer out of turn against the Dodgers on their last trip to Cincinnati, so you wouldn't have to use him against the Cards."

McKechnie reared up with such a jerk that he almost dislodged his spectacles. It was the first time we ever saw him fighting mad.

He snarled, "why—that red-faced so-and-so! He don't know what he's talking about. We have no pitching turns on this club. I pitch the man I think will win on any given day. There's no person connected with the Cincinnati club who can tell me when to use a pitcher, and so I'm certainly not taking any orders from MacPhail.

"Why—if I used turns in pitching, Ray Starr wouldn't have been in there today against the Dodgers. I sent him in with only two days rest. He pitched a no-hitter against Boston on Thursday. I figured he could win today, so I sent him in. We play to win, against the Dodgers or any other club. MacPhail just can't take it."

With Deacon Willie spitting out words like that, the reporters figured this was the moment to ask him for a solid pennant prediction. But shrewd William balefully evaded. He declined to thumb the Dodgers out of the race, despite his wrath against their prexy.

"No one can tell about this race yet," McKechnie replied.

"The Cards' one-game lead doesn't mean the end for Brooklyn. Anything can happen in the remaining 12 games for each. I wish my club had the chance Brooklyn still has."

DUCKS AND SAILORS SQUARE UP SERIES

ERIE, Pa —(UP)— Their series squared at two games each, Erie and Dayton meet tonight in the deciding contest of their three-out-of-five semi-final Mid-Atlantic league playoff.

Winner of the game will open the final four-out-of-seven series in Canton, victor over Charleston in three straight games.

Erie Manager Kerby Farrell, regular first baseman, took over the mound chores for the Sailors yesterday and trimmed the Ducks, 4-2, allowing only six hits.

Mort Wins 20th The Hard Way

Pitcher Mort Cooper of the St. Louis Cardinals proudly displays the numeral 20 on his shirt, symbolic of his 20th victory of the season, won the hard way, for he had to lick the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers to do it. Mort is being admired by his brothers, Catcher Walker Cooper of the Cardinals and Jim Cooper of the United States Navy. Since winning his 14th game, Cooper has worn the numeral 20 in high hopes of attaining that figure. Cooper's victory reduced the Dodgers' lead over the Cardinals to one game in the torrid National league pennant race.

Association Teams Even Up Play-Offs

(By Associated Press)

Some of the heat that glowed from the American Association pennant drive has been carried over to the playoffs, which, like the flag chase itself, may go the full stretch before being decided.

Columbus defeated Kansas City, 2 to 1, yesterday while Toledo nicked Milwaukee, 5 to 3. The 4-of-7 semi-final playoffs thus were squared with each of the four clubs holding two victories.

Columbus' Preacher Roe bested Charley Wensloff in a pitcher's battle, holding the newly-crowned pennant winners to five blows, two of them coming in the fourth for the Blues' only tally.

Wensloff also issued only five hits, but the Red Birds bunched three of them in the second for a pair of runs sparked by singles from the bats of Eddie Lukon and Johnny Antonelli.

Johnny Marcum's eight-hit job and his ability to emerge from trouble, gave the Mudhens their decision over the Brewers. The Hens chopped away at four Milwaukee hurlers for 10 hits, including Phil Weintraub's four-ply blow and a double and Milt Byrnes' triple and two singles.

HUNTERS URGED TO CONSERVE ON TIRES

COLUMBUS—(AP)—With the squirrel season due to open Tuesday in 52 central and southern Ohio counties, the state conservation department urges sportsmen to "make each trip count" in order to save tires.

The department suggests a "take along your fishing rod" campaign, so that hunters might combine outdoor activities in a move designed to fill the family larder, to be affected presumably by the proposed meatless days. Hunters are asked to share transportation, filling every automobile to capacity.

Democrats May Ask F.D.R. To Intervene In Elections

(By United Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa.—President Roosevelt's personal intervention in Pennsylvania's 1942 gubernatorial campaign grew more likely today as Republican and Democratic political leaders mapped Nov. 3 election plans to win control of the state, one of the most politically important in the nation.

Despite gravity of World war II taxing all his time and energy Mr. Roosevelt may be called on for a personal appearance in the commonwealth in behalf of Auditor General F. Clair Ross, Democratic fiscal officer bucking a GOP gubernatorial victory tradition broken only once since 1895.

Injection of the President into Pennsylvania's political campaign was termed logical by Democratic strategists in hope of minimizing increasing war-spurred sentiment favoring the Republican candidate for Governor, Maj. Gen. Edward Martin, now the GOP state administration's adjutant general and former commmander of the famed 28th (Iron) Division.

33 Seats In Congress Open

Especially important to Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal is continued control of Congress, and that factor lends additional significance to the the state's congressional contests next November. Pennsylvania's delegation in congress now comprises 19 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

All of the state's 33 seats in congress are at stake, with 32 to be elected by district votes and one to be elected at large. A population drop forced the state to eliminate one representative, requiring district boundaries.

Among congressmen to be selected will be a successor to the late Rev. Patrick J. Boland, of Scranton, who served as the President's house whip His widow is now serving out his term. Democrats point out that need for New Deal control of congress until the President's third term ends in 1945, probably will enable him to find time to promote the party cause in Pennsylvania.

Leaders Doubt Senators

Rival political leaders were concerned over the attitude of the state's U. S. senators. Democrat Joseph F. Guffey and Republican James J. (Puddler Jim) Davis. Since both suffered sharp reverses in last May's primary, there is doubt of their enthusastic support of respective party gubernatorial candidates.

Davis, labor secretary under three presidents, opposed Martin in the primary. He garnered 420,000 votes; Martin, 517,000. Long at odds with Democratic state chairman David L. Lawrence, Guffey backed Judge Ralph H. Smith, Pittsburgh, for the gubernatorial nomination in a three-way fight. Ross won with 277,000 votes, Smith finishing second with 216,000.

It appeared likely that both parties will gain surface unity, creating a departure from dissension in Democratic ranks since 1938 when Guffey's bitter fight with Lawrence led to spectacular graft charges, regarded chiefly responsible for the election of Republican Gov. Arthur H. James.

Until then, it appeared certain the liberal policies of former Gov. George H. Earle, elected in 1935 as the state's first Democratic chief executive in 44 years, would enable party leaders to hold their grip on the commonwealth administration. Now a lieutenant commander in the navy, Earle rejected offers to run again this year after he served as U. S. Minister.

COUPLES TODAY LIVE LONGER THAN THOSE OF THE GAY '90S

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — Many of the young people who are marrying this year have a fair chance—barring divorce or separation—of celebrating their golden wedding, a very good chance of surviving for their silver anniversary, and are almost sure to be alive for their 10th wedding anniversary, according to the statisticians of one of the largest life insurance companies.

When the average couple step up to the altar, the statisticians explain, they can look forward to the advent of their 50th wedding anniversary with twice the assurance of the bridal pairs of the late 90's, it is pointed out, for example, that for the girl of 21, who marries a man five years older, the chances are one in five that the two will survive together for the next half century. Fifty years ago the chances would have been only one in ten.

For the bride of 25, with a husband of 30, the chances today for their living throughout the next 50 years are one in ten as against one in 20 half a century ago. The chances of a golden wedding celebration decreases rapidly with increases in the ages at marriage.

For the bride of 26 or younger, marrying a man five years her senior, the chances of celebrating her 25th anniversary, or silver wedding, are three in four; if the groom is the same age, the chances are four in five. In the past 50 years the chances of a couple surviving to enjoy their silver wedding have increased about one-half.

As for celebrating their tenth wedding anniversary, the statisticians explain that the chances are more than nine in ten for brides up to the age of 38 with grooms of the same age, and for brides up to 34 if the groom is five years older.

In general, the chances of a tenth wedding anniversary, according to present health conditions, are about one-sixth greater than they were 50 years ago.

"In many respects the American people are singularly fortunate with regard to their marital status," the statisticians say. "Their marriage rate is among the highest in the world and they tend to marry younger than in most countries of the western world. They are also favored with such good health conditions that aside from separation or divorce they are almost certain to celebrate their tenth wedding anniversary, they have a fair chance for a twenty-fifth anniversary and a chance far from negligible to live to their fiftieth anniversary."

CHAPTER XXIV

"Yesterday," Marcia read, "we marched through a woods. There was a tang of frost in the air. There was a silver frost on all the curled brown leaves at our feet. I longed to kick and scuff through those leaves, but was afraid it might give the impression that I was goose-stepping. There were glossy green holly trees with red berries and mistletoe vines with white berries.

"We sang. I even lifted my psuedo baritone in a Christmas Carol. And speaking of Christmas—don't come to see me. I don't want anyone to come to see me just now. Emphatically! Sometime I shall explain. Leave it at that now. I'm afraid you were right when you—"

Marcia broke off self-consciously, "I didn't mean to read that. It's—well, sometime I'll tell you. . . . Why, Amy, you look sick. Did I tire you!"

Amy was lying, with eyes closed very tightly so that the tears couldn't escape. Guy came in then and Marcia said remorsefully, "Oh I talked too long! I tired her out!"

Guy laughed gently, and said, "You haven't tired her. She's just tired of lying here. Let's take her downstairs. You help her get ready and then call me."

Marcia helped her into the gold negligee, the one with the turquoise studded belt that she had intended should be part of her trousseau. Then Guy came in and said, "Now I'll carry you downstairs."

Amy shook her head and started for the door, but before she got there she wobbled and had to catch the corner of the bureau for support. He was at her side in an instant and had gathered her up in his arms.

She was surprised at the ease with which he carried her, so strongly yet lightly. She felt suddenly at peace, so soothed and relaxed that as they neared the bottom of the stairs her head dropped against his shoulder.

She lifted it quickly. But he gathered her suddenly close to him for the barest instant laid his cheek against hers.

Then she felt his shoulders stiffen and he said abruptly, "Forgive me, Amy!"

Quickly he pushed the door open and carried her into the living room and deposited her in a big chair beside Papa Eckert.

Amy lay back in the big chair beside Papa Eckert breathless. The spell of that brief moment at the foot of the stairs was still strong upon her. There were still warm hands about her where Guy's arms had held her. And her cheek still glowed from the touch of his.

"He had left the room as soon as he had deposited her in the chair. When he came back he was pushing Daphne's wheeled chair. Daphne looked the picture of health; her cheeks were red, her black curls glossy and springy.

"You look like a sick princess, Tudor," she declared. "Doesn't she look like a sick princess, Daddy?"

Guy was saved from replying by the entrance of Mama Eckert. She insisted upon making an occasion of Amy's first trip downstairs. She called to Marcia, who was still upstairs, that she was to stay to dinner. And when Dr. Ames came in she invited him too.

He accepted the invitation with alacrity, but he barely grunted in the direction of Amy.

He was the life of the party at the dinner table, with the light from the big old-fashioned stained glass shade on the center chandelier falling in blue and red patches on his yellow hair while he complimented Mama Eckert on her sauer kraut with apples and dumplings until the plump little woman glowed with pride.

He delighted Daphne by calling her "the pug-nosed duchess," Marcia he dubbed "Red," making a gamin face at her.

"The appelation's a little far-fetched," Marcia laughed. "I'm not quite that vivid. But I do like having a nickname. Do you know, I've never had one."

"That's because you have too much money," Dr. Ames declared. "You can't nickname such a vast fortune."

"You can too," Amy contradicted. "If you read the New York society news or the columnists anyway, you'll find that most people with great fortunes have nicknames. I met a Grand Duke at Nice who was called 'Dug!' Marcia's a person in her own right without her fortune."

Dr. Ames went on talking to Marcia as though Amy had not spoken. Amy determined to ignore his neglect. She tried her best to become interested in a conversation with Papa Eckert but something Daphne said brought her back into the whirl of general talk again.

Daphne was asking, "Will it be a little crutch, just to fit me?"

Dr. Ames was replying, "Sure it will. A swell little crutch. And don't you get to throwing it around."

"Like the bad little boys you told me about," Daphne responded. "Daddy, Dr. Ames told me about some little girls and boys that have to stay in a hospital without their fathers and mothers. They all stay in one room and sometimes they're bad and the nurses have to make them be good even if they are sick. Their father's haven't any money and can't buy them a Tudor."

Amy felt the blood surge to her face, then ebb. But Marcia beamed upon the young doctor. "That's the sort of place where perhaps I might find something to do," she said. "I have time even with the first aid work I'm taking."

"Great idea!" he declared. "Just the set-up for a girl like you. I'll tell you more about it later."

Guy said, "I'd like to make a contribution to a place of that sort."

"See Jefferson Lempton. He's head of the board," Dr. Ames said curtly. And turned to Marcia again. He was treating Guy exactly as he had treated Amy. This was too much.

"I think I'm tired," Amy said. "I've stayed down long enough. I'm afraid I'll have to go back to bed."

Guy rose. "I'll help you upstairs."

"You and Marcia," Amy said. Dr. Ames should not have any excuse for further insults. She was certain now that he had some notion about Guy and herself. She hated him for it.

Was he right, she asked herself later as she lay, stiff with indignation, in the narrow iron bed in the warm darkness of the little upstairs room. Oh, she had been stupider than the stupidest ostrich! Burying her head in the sand, refusing to see what was going on. No, that wasn't quite true. It was because she'd been absorbed in her love for Paul. But wasn't she still in love with Paul? Wasn't she? Perhaps she was just very angry with him. Or perhaps she felt all confused because she was sick and very tired.

She finally dropped off to sleep thinking of an old Russian proverb, "The morning is wiser than the evening."

The morning was hot with fever and shaky with cold. Mama Eckert called in the old neighborhood doctor who had cared for Paul and Frani in their childhood. He scolded Amy for having gotten up so soon and put her in bed again for two weeks.

During that two weeks Christmas came. It was a lost Christmas as far as Amy was concerned. There were, to be sure, a few gifts—stockings and lingerie from the cousins in Washington and North Carolina; she heard Daphne exclaiming wildly downstairs and Mama Eckert came up to tell her that Frani had sent Daphne a box from Cuba, filled with lovely colorful things including a native doll.

Daphne wasn't allowed to come to Amy's room for fear she might catch her cold, but they sent up a tray at dinner loaded with turkey and all the fixings. And there was a lovely toilet set, gold with turquoise that matched her negligee. In it was a card, with "Merry Christmas from Daphne" printed in the large wobbly capitals Daphne had learned to make under Amy's tutelage. But Daphne could never have selected such a gift.

"She shouldn't have given me anything so utterly grand," Amy told Guy when he entered her room a moment later accompanied by Mama Eckert.

"We thought it looked like you," he said. But it seemed to her the "we" was editorial.

Most of the day she lay there, hoping she might hear from Paul. But that was somehow like wishing you might hear from a person who was dead. Which, she scolded herself, was a silly feeling. But it persisted.

New Year's slipped into the past. By that time Amy was downstairs and had gone outdoors for two short walks and downtown in a taxi for a shampoo. And she had told Mama Eckert that she was going to leave them, that she was ready now to hunt for a new job.

She wanted Mama Eckert to let her pay for her room and board during the weeks she had been sick, but Mama Eckert refused. "Guy pays me for you and Miss Bolton and Daphne. You're part of his staff," she said.

"Not while I'm sick," Amy argued, but the older woman was adamant. She approved though of Amy's decision to leave.

"It'll be better for you," she declared. "You'll get a nice job, more your kind of thing. Though you are unlucky like Frani—born too attractive. Well, anyway, Daphne doesn't need you now."

Amy had planned to go when Daphne was really settled. But she had a more urgent reason now. She and Guy couldn't ignore the thing that had happened between them—small though it was. They couldn't go on as though it had never been.

She'd have to have it out with Guy too—the sooner the better, that night if possible. But that night Guy came home all excited and kissed Mama Eckert as Dr. Ames or Paul might have done.

"Many happy returns of the day," he said, handing her a box containing flowers.

Awkwardly Mama Eckert took out the great luscious red roses. "You oughtn't to have done it," she scolded. "It's our wedding anniversary, thirty-fifth," she explained to Amy. "The thirty-fifth's not so important."

"It is," Guy declared. "And we're celebrating tonight by going to the symphony."

Papa Eckert rose. His smile was as eager as Daphne's could have been.

"I haven't been to the symphony for a long time," he said. "And Mama hasn't been for years. We used to go—well, when I was courting her—"

Mama Eckert looked doubtful—even a little frightened.

"Oh, not me. I haven't gone to anything of that kind for years. I don't go out!"

"That's no reason why you shouldn't now," Guy urged.

Papa Eckert pleaded too. But Mama Eckert was obdurate. Finally she said shyly, "Maybe if Amy would go—"

"Just the idea!" Guy joined in enthusiastically. "Come on, Amy, get into your glad rags."

"I don't believe I'd better tonight," Amy demurred.

"If Amy went would it be a dress affair?" Papa Eckert asked wistfully.

Amy regarded him with surprise — thin and stooped and gnome-like. It had never occurred to her that he would be intrigued by the idea of dressing up.

"We'd be all set if you'd go," Guy said.

"If you would—" Mama Eckert put in.

She looked at Mama Eckert. She thought of her years of dishwashing and scrubbing and curtain hanging in this little house, loving it, contented with her limited sphere, but longing, perhaps, for something outside occasionally—timid now when the chance came.

PAM—Puzzled. By A. W. Brewerton

I'M CERTAINLY GOING TO KEEP MY EYES AND EARS OPEN TO PICK UP A REAL CLUE! OH, IF I ONLY COULD!
SHORTLY AFTER THAT PAM LEFT THE OFFICE FOR A FEW MINUTES, BUT FIRST SATISFYING HERSELF MR BRONNER WOULD NOT NEED HER
I KNOW DAVID IS TERRIBLY WORRIED OVER THIS CASE! HOW I WISH I COULD HELP HIM!
9-14
SHE HAD STARTED TO CROSS THE OUTER HALL, WHEN--
WHY, IT'S MR. BRONNER!
HOW'D HE GET OUT HERE SO QUICKLY? I JUST LEFT HIM IN HIS OFFICE!
CAN IT POSSIBLY BE HE HAS A-A SECRET EXIT?

JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern

GOSH, UNCLE HOMER,--- WE ALL READ IN THE PAPER HOW TERRY AND THE CHIEF CAUGHT THOSE NAZI SABOTEURS! --- AND THE FBI MEN CAME,---
--- GEE, I WISH I WAS THERE!
HOW'S HAPPEN THERE WAS NO MENTION OF YOU AND ROBIN? --- DID YOU TAKE TO A CAVE UNTIL IT WAS SAFE TO CRAWL OUT?
INDEED, SIR,--- IT WAS MY STRATEGY THAT MADE THE CAPTURE POSSIBLE, AND I LET TERRY AND THE CHIEF HAVE THE HONORS!
---- AFTER ALL NOTHING THRILLING EVER HAPPENS IN THEIR LIVES!

EFFORTS ALONG RECOVERY LINE PROVE FEEBLE

Warning Repeated on Steel Scrap Shortage, Lack of Reserves Found.

NEW YORK—Spots of resistance developed in today's stock market proceedings although recovery tendencies generally were feeble.

Up a shade were Anaconda, Western Union, N. Y. Central and U. S. Steel. Small minus marks were posted for Texas Co., Goodyear and Westinghouse.

Market optimists derived scant comfort from the survey of the magazine "Steel" which reiterated its warnings regarding seriousness of the scrap shortage. While scrap collections have increased in some areas, it was said, and mill activities were being maintained at a high rate, "it has not been possible to build up reserves, and apprehension grows that the winter will bring a famine."

Trend analysist saw a constructive move in the announcement of the war production board that it was setting up a small war plants division to provide machinery for the widest possible spread of armament work to the smaller manufacturing plants of the country.

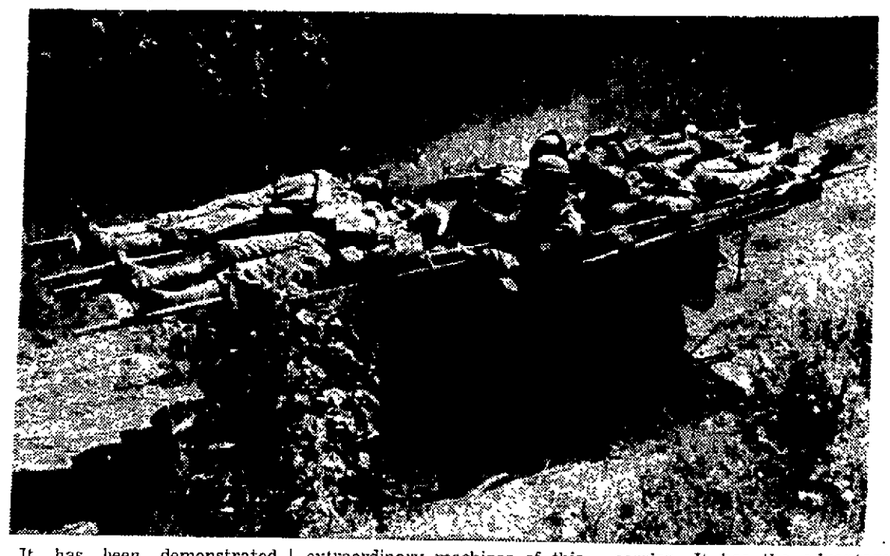
Army Jeep Car Used As Stretcher Carrier



It has been demonstrated time and again that the U. S. Army jeep car is one of the extraordinary machines of this war. Now the Medical Corps' Field Service School at Carlisle, Pa., uses the jeep as a stretcher carrier. It has the advantage of getting in and out of places that are inaccessible to large ambulances.

200 Pastors, Lay Delegates Open Lutheran Meeting

Two hundred Lutheran ministers and laymen were in Mansfield today for the opening session of the Central Conference of the United Lutheran Synod of Ohio in St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

Sessions will continue through Tuesday afternoon when new officers will be installed and the Rev. K. J. Bishop of Adamsville will speak on the subject, "A Pastor's Problems in Wartime."

At the opening session this morning, pastors and delegates from 68 congregations received Holy Communion administered by the president of the conference, Rev. Carl M. Kessler of Wadsworth, and the secretary, Rev. Charles F. Sherliff, pastor of the hostess church.

The Synod of Ohio was represented by Rev. George W. Miley of Columbus, president, and George L. Rinkliff of Springfield, treasurer.

Rev. George W. Dittman of Doylestown was the main speaker this morning and he used for his subject, "Launch Out" Miss Anna Klippel presided at the organ and a choir of ministers and laymen led the service.

A brotherhood fellowship banquet will be held in the church parlors at 7 p. m. Raymond Pugh of Shelby, president of the conference brotherhood will be the toastmaster and the speaker will be Dr. E. J. Schad of Shelby. Smart's Accordion band will furnish special music.

New pastors moving into the territory since the meeting a year ago were presented this afternoon and the first ballot for electing officers was taken.

MACEDONIANS IN REVOLT, REPORTS TO LONDON SAY

Uprising Set Off By Attempt on Life in Bulgarian Cabinet Official.

(By United Press)

LONDON—(U.P.)—A Balkan revolt, touched off by an attempt to assassinate Peter Gabrovski, Bulgarian minister of interior, was reported today in reliable advices from the continent.

Violence was sweeping Bulgarian Macedonia where more than 100 suspects were reported to have been arrested after an unsuccesstul attempt on Gabrovski's life at the old Yugoslavian town of Skolpje.

Intelligence reports from the continent indicated widespread and violent opposition to the Axis occupation authorities throughout the "protectorate" of southeastern Yugoslavia and the Macedonian area of Greece assumed by Bulgaria.

Macedonian guerillas, roving in bands, were said to have thrown the population of several districts into panic, resulting in clashes with Bulgar troops and police along the Yugoslav border.

Guerilla attacks on Bulgar border garrisons forced the Bulgarian government to proclaim a state of siege in Skolpje, a town of 65,000 persons, 110 miles southwest of Sofia. Other towns also were declared in a state of siege.

At Struma, 72 miles southeast of Skolpje, three men were executed for allegedly attempting to incite a revolt.

Reports from the neutral Swedish Telegraph agency called the Macedonian revolt "bloody." All Bulgarian officials have been killed in several small towns, it said. The Macedonian patriots were receiving ammunition from "the enemy," it said, presumably meaning the Russians.

Radio Berlin broadcast a Trans-Ocean news agency report from Budapest that death sentences had been threatened for anybody in Hungary who sheltered parachutists. The threat followed recent Soviet air force raids on Budapest.

Undersecretary Of War Tries Machine Gun

A machine gun is a familiar weapon of war to Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson. He won the Distinguished Service Cross in World War I. He is shown on the firing range at Fort Jackson, S. C., as he tries out his trigger finger. He's firing a 30 caliber light machine gun at a moving target. This is an official U. S. Army phonephoto.

An announcement TO OWNERS OF GASOLINE APPLIANCES
(such as stoves, heaters, lamps, irons, etc.)
USING BLUE SUNOCO

The Blue Sunoco Motor Fuel now sold in this community contains a small amount of tetraethyl lead.

We appreciate this will inconvenience our many friends who have been using Blue Sunoco in gasoline-burning appliances, because, as you know, gasolines which contain lead should not be used in gasoline stoves, heaters, lamps, irons, blow-torches, etc.

Therefore, we advise that Blue Sunoco should not be used in any gasoline-burning appliances and should not be used for cleaning purposes. It is to be used only as a fuel for automobiles, trucks, tractors, etc.
